POST LANDS IN MOSCOW; HOPS AGAIN

Joseph W. Harriman Disappears Again From Hospital

GLOBE GIRDLER WELL AHEAD OF FORMER MARK

American Flier, Seeking Round World Flight Record, Lands in Russian Capital to Repair Oil Line 54 Hours After Leaving New York —Starts Long Jump to Novosibirsk, Siberia.

MOSCOW, July 17—(AP)—Wiley Post, American round-the-world solo flier, soared eastward this afternoon on the 1,818-mile journey to Novosibirsk in Siberia. He had landed a few hours earlier from Koenigsberg, Germany.

The most perfect possible weather conditions prevailed from Moscow as far as the Ural mountains. Local weather officials, who gove the airman full meteorological information before he left, said it was probable the present cloudiness between the Urals and Novosibirsk would clear up before he reached that area.

Post refused a chance to snatch a few minutes sleep at the Moscow airport that he might speed up mechanicians working on his plane.

It was 5.12 p. m., (8:12 a. m., Lincoln time) when the American flier started the Novosibirsk leg of his journey. He had been in Moscow 2 hours and 52 minutes.

When he sped away from the soviet capital a more than 48-hour growth of beard had disappeared from his face, as he spent fifteen minutes of his short stay here in the airport barbershop.

Post said he experienecd great difficult with his mechanical pilot from the beginning of his flight from New York and he was therefore compelled to drive his ship manually the entire distance.

The robot trouble combined with a break i nthe oil feed induced Post to land at Moscow, he said. He hoped he had put everything in excellent order here before he departed.

Lands in Moscow.

MOSCOW, July 17—(AP)—Wiley Post, American aviator, landed here at 2:20 p. m., Moscow time, (5:20 a. m., Lincoln time) today after a flight from Kenigsberg, Germany.

Post, who seeks to better the mark he and Harold Gatty set on a globe-girdling journey in 1931, had left Koenigsberg at 6:45 a. m., local time.

Weather reports indicated that after he passed the rain storm he braved at the time of his departure he had fair flying conditions the rest of the way.

Post and Gatty had an elapsed time of 54 hours and 34 minutes when they reached Moscow.

Post made the trip from Koen-

CALL ISSUED TO AMERICAN YOUTH

Walther League President Addresses Convention at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 16—(AP)—American youth was called upon today to fill the highest places created by the federal government's social, political and economic innovations.

These innovations, E. J. Gallmeyer, president of the Walther league, told 4,000 members of the organization gathered for its international convention, were the vehicles on which young people might ride to future acomplishments.

The nation's future is largely dependent upon its youth, Gallmeyer, postmaster of Fort Wayne, Ind., said, adding that those on the threshold of life's serious tasks were better equipped and were confronted with less obstacles than those of a century ago, despite eco-

Elliott Roosevelt and Wife Divorced

Decree Given Wife of President's Son; Hearing Is Secret.

MINDEN, Nev., July 17—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the president, and Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt were divorced in district court here today.

Doors were barred to all except the president's son, court officials and attorneys during the brief hearing, which ended with awarding of the decree to Mrs. Roosevelt on her cross complaint charging extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Roosevelt, daughter of a millionaire steel executive, was not in court. Her testimony was read into the record from a deposition that arrived here by air mail from Philadelphia this morning.

What she testified to in support of her cross complaint was not revealed by attorneys, who had the transcript sealed by court order.

It was understood, however, she based her plea for divorce largely upon the fact that her temperament and that of the 22-year-old Elliott differed so greatly that further life together had become impossible.

Attorney Says Mortgage Is A Gambling Deal

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—In an answer filed in a district court foreclosure suit today, an attorney asserts fluctuations in the value of the dollar have made mortgages gambling contracts, and therefore void.

If the dollar depreciates in value, the answer stated, th e borrower gains; if it increases in value, the lender gains. It is claimed that this gambling element was understood by both parties at the time the mortgages involved was controlled.

The case is that of the United States National company of Omaha against Henry and Bertha Jipp, farmers near Bennington. The suit is to foreclose two mortgages totalling approximately $12,000.

T. E. Johannsen, attorney who filed the answer for the Jipps, said he knew of no precedent for the defense theory. If sustained, he said, it would upset dollar contracts generally.

The attorney expressed hope that he would at least get a postponement of payment until such time as the dollar is approximately at parity with its value at the time the mortgages were contracted.

Unidentified Man Taken To Hospital After He Faints

An unidentified man, who fell over unconscious after stopping at a store for assistance, was being treated at the St. Elizabeth's hospital Monday afternoon.

The young man stopped at the I. E. Ball Implement Co., 215 South Tenth street, complaining that he did not feel well. While in the store, he fainted and employes called police. Splain and Schnell's ambulance took him to the hospital shortly after 2 o'clock.

He was being treated by Dr. W. W. Carveth. The man, about 30 years old was not known at the implement store and his identity had not been established at the hospital. He was dressed in overalls.

FLIERS BOUND FOR LITHUANIA DIE IN CRASH

Plane Carrying Darius and Girenas Plunges in Germany.

WRECKED CRAFT FOUND IN FOREST

American Pair Left New York Saturday Without Government O. K.

SOLDIN, Pomerania, Germany, July 17—(AP)—The airplane Luthuanica, in which Stephen Darius and Stanley Gireans were attempting a non-stop flight from New York to Lithuania, crashed early today at Kuhdamm and both fliers were killed. Kuhdamm is five miles south of Soldin.

The plane was discovered in a forest. The bodies of the airmen were under it.

A local farmer heard the crash about 7 o'clock this morning but the actual discovery of the ship was not made until a few hours later.

A party of aviators and police officials left immediately from Berlin for Soldin.

Soldin is situated on a lake of the same name near the border line of the two Prussian provinces of Neumark and Pomerania. Police surmised that the avitors in attempting to land mistook treetops for a meadow.

Wings Hanging in Trees.

There was some doubt about the exact time of the crash. Investigators said the bodies indicated the men died sometime between 3 and 5 a. m.

Women gathering berries said they heard a machine about 5 oclock and the noise suddenly ceased. Later a cyclist discovered

HOME OWNERS TO GET MONEY SOON

Thought Federal Loans Will Be Available By August 1.

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Congressman Edward R. Burke, who returned from Washington Saturday, said he expects the first Nebraska loans to home owners under the new federal act will be made about August 1. He has been making a detailed study of the organization of the new home owners' loan corporation while at Washington, and says inquiries about such loans have exceeded those about other recovery measures almost 10 to 1.

Burke conferred here yesterday with Charles Smrha, newly appointed manager of the corporation for Nebraska, before Smrha left for Washington to meet tomorrow with W. F. Stevenson, chairman of the corporation's national board, and Arthur Mullen. At this meeting the attorneyship for the corporation in Nebraska is expected to be decided.

Prominently mentioned for the post of Nebraska attorney for the corporation are Cloyd L. Stewat of Clay Center and Phil Tomek of David City.

Burke said if the setup provides that all loans must be cleared through the state headquarters, Omaha is the logical place for the main office. Otherwise, he said, he would not oppose actively the selection of Grand Island.

RECOVERY DRIVE WILL BE PUSHED

Johnson Discusses Wage Boost Blanket Order With Advisers.

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson, the national recovery administrator, today continued intensive study of the plans for a general call to industry and business to join in the wage-raising and work-sharing drive without waiting for formal action by the government on agreements submitted by the various industrial lines.

Indications were a final decision might come shortly.

The question, discussed at length yesterday with President Roosevelt aboard the yacht Sequoia on Chesapeake bay, was taken up today by the administrator with his legal advisers and deputy administrators.

Later Johnson took it to a meeting of the recovery advisory board composed of cabinet members headed by Secretary Roper.

No word as to conclusions penetrated from the meeting. It had been decided, however, that the enterprise, if undertaken, would have to be on a volunteer basis since the law provides no authority for a general blanket compulsion of business to increase the purchasing power of its workers.

More Code Hearings.

Also expected shortly was announcement by Johnson of hearing dates for more codes of fair competition, the agreements by which business under the industrial control law obtains self-regulation in exchange for benefits for labor. Sev-

Lightning Hits Norfolk Hospital During Operation

Patients Escape Injury After Bolt Tears Hole In Roof.

NORFOLK, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Lightning early this afternoon struck the Lutheran hospital in this city, knocked off several feet of the chimney, tore a hole in the roof and disabled the electric lights and telephones in the building. No one was injured.

The bolt struck while Dr. P. H. Salter and Dr. E. L. Brush were performing an appendicitis operation on John Hoffman of Pierce. When the lightning put electric lights out of commission the doctors moved the operating table near windows to complete their work but before it was finished electric light service was resumed.

While attendants and patients in the hosital felt the lightning jar, no persons were injured.

An estimate of the damage had not been made at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The loss is covered by insurance. Rain was still falling heavily here shortly after 2 o'clock.

HUTTON FILES DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST AIMEE

Marriage of Evangelist and Chorister Goes On the Rocks.

LOS ANGELES, July 17—(AP)—The marriage of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, and David Hutton, portly singer, moved into the divorce courts today in a suit in which Hutton alleged he had heard she wished to sever marital ties.

For some time after Mrs. McPherson-Hutton sailed for Europe, Hutton was regarded publicly as the business manager of the religious edifice in which the evangelist had preached her way to prominence.

The complaint alleged Hutton had been "fired" from Angelus temple under orders from the defendant while she was in Europe. This allegation was prefaced with the statement that "before she left, the defendant told various persons she wished to sever her marital relations with the plaintiff and to eliminate him from the business of the temple."

Leader of Italy's Air Amada Will Visit Roosevelt

24 Seaplanes Will Leave Chicago On Return Flight Wednesday.

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—Gen. Italo Balbo accepted an invitation today to visit President Roosevelt at the white house late this week.

Postmaster General James A. Farley presented the president's invitation while the Italian air minister was paying an official call at the city hall.

The capital city, however, probably will miss a view of the fleet of 24 Italian seaplanes which completed the first mass flight from Europe to America when it dropped down on Lake Michigan at Chicago's front door Saturday.

General Balbo said the return trip would start Wednesday morning, the armada flying directly to New York.

The Italian visitors will remain in New York several days, leaving the ships at anchor while the commander makes a special trip to Washington—probably by automobile or train or in an American plane. After the visit to the capital, General Balbo will rejoin his flight comrades in New York and prepare for the crossing of the southern Atlantic to the Azores and Italy.

THOUSANDS GET PAY HIKE UNDER RECOVERY PACTS

Textile Workers On 40-Hour Week at Higher Wage Levels.

STEEL LABOR GIVEN 15 PER CENT MORE

Many Other Industries Falling Into Line for Better Times.

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—For nearly a million working men and women the depression is as good as ended today, their wages suddenly lifted back to the purchasing level of better days by voluntary co-operation of industry with government.

For hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, more, the day holds forth hope of similar good luck in the immediate future

Textile workers—not only cotton, but rayon, silk and allied products—all over the north and south, went back to their mills this morning on a 40-hour work week schedule, at rates of pay intended to give them the purchasing power of 1929.

Steel Wages Hiked.

In steel mills, labor today is earning 15 per cent more than last week—in some cases even better—a boost back to the level of 1932. In countless other industries which have submitted or soon will present their so-called codes of fair competition, the compacts by which the government allows them to regulate themselves in exchange for giving labor a lift, the promise of a real living wage to workers is near imminent realization.

This is the fruit of intensive work by Hugh S. Johnson and a corps of aides told off by President Roosevelt to administer the industrial control plan of the national recovery act,

PUBLIC WORKS PLANS SIFTED

Building Projects to Be Stripped to Most Worthy Projects.

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The cabinet board in charge of the federal public works program ordered a resurvey by the budget bureau today of recommendations from the treasury for spending about $750,000,000 on public buildings.

At the same time, the board undertook a reconsideration of the $90,000,000 river and harbor and flood control program it submitted last week to President Roosevelt.

The board asked the budget bureau to submit a new list of federal building projects stripped down to the most worthy proposals.

"We spent a lot of time discussing what kind of a public building program, if any, to recommend to the president," said Secretary Ickes, chairman and public works administrator.

Ickes said the river and harbor program submitted last week would be "carefully reconsidered to make sure the money is wisely spent."

Not a Grab Bag.

"This is not a grab bag," he added, asserting the purpose was not to curtail the program, but to be sure that each project was necessary.

The board turned down a request from Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania for a grant of an extra $12,000,000 dollars for roads in addition to the state's allotment.

A change in the plan for administering advances to states and local governmental units also was formulated.

Regional administrators will be set up, together with state advisory boards of three members, but recommendations of the state groups now can be sent directly to Washington without having to go through or be approved by the regional administrators, as provided heretofore. Their purpose will be to co-ordinate the activities of the various states.

Wheat at 99 Cents Here; Best Price in Over Three Years

With top quotations on wheat reaching 99 cents in Lincoln Monday, the grain was bringing the best price offered here in nearly three and one-half years. Wheat last sold at the $1 mark in Lincoln in February, 1930, according to the Gooch Milling & Elevator Co.

Stocks, Grains Climb Higher

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Stocks joined commodities in a broad upward thrust today.

In a turnover approximating 6,500,000 shares, leading issues on the New York stock exchange climbed $1 to around $8. Alcohol shares, together with those of rubber and metal companies, furnished most of the fireworks, although the advance was general.

Cotton had a strong market, rising about $2 a bale into new high ground as grains and shares soared. Crude rubber futures had a maximum appreciation of a cent a pound. Sugar and silver were fairly quiet.

Stocks appeared to have been inspired by the sensational gains of wheat, and new high for the year were made, although some of the old-time favorites, including U. S. Steel and American Telephone, failed to pierce their previous peaks.

GRAVEL COMPANY FILES $273,000 ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Allis Petition Charges Three Firms Attempted Get Monopoly.

Judgment for $273,404.23 for damages alleged suffered as a result of purported violations of state anti-trust laws is asked by the Allis Sand and Gravel Co. of Omaha in a suit filed in District court Monday against the Lyman-Richey Sand & Gravel Co. of Omaha, the Western Sand & Gravel Co. of Lincoln, the National Construction Co. of Omaha and controlling officers of the three defendant companies.

Individuals sued as stockholders, officers and directors of the Lyman-Richey company are Horatio F. Curtis, Fred P. Curtis, Lewis C. Curtis, John W. Curtis, Clyde Curtis J. R. Burke and E. H. Palmquist. William M. Stoner is sued as an officer and director of the Western Sand and Gravel Co., Bernard P. Wickham as officer and director of the National Construction Co.

Say Importuned Quit Field.

Claim is made that since 1924 the defendants, with the exception of the National Construction Co. and Wickham have attempted to monopolize the production of sand and gravel in Nebraska. The Allis Sand & Gravel Co., started in 1926, was importuned and offered advantages to retire from the field, it is claimed. This failing, the plaintiff claims, the defendants in 1930 induced Wickham, one of the organizers of the Allis company, to enter the alleged conspiracy, along with his company, the National Construction Co.

The Allis Sand & Gravel Co. alleges that as a result of succeeding purported monopolistic actions on the part of the defendants that it has suffered actual damages to the DES MOINES, Ia., July 17—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Park A. Findley chief of the state bureau of investigation, today confirmed a rumor that an attempted kidnaping of Fred L. Maytag, 76, millionaire washing machine manufacturer of Newton, Ia., had been thwarted last week.

Information reaching him, Findley declared, was that a group of kidnapers planned to seize Maytag when he returned to Newton last Thursday for a celebrattion of his 76th birthday. Following an investigation at Newton plans for Maytag's return were altered and he arrived Wednesday accompanied by a bodyguard of state agents.

BRYAN SUPPORTS WATERWAY PACT

Confers With Director Of Group Boosting Treaty.

Governor Bryan received a personal call Monday from Charles P. Craig of Washington, D. C., executive director for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence tidewater association, who is touring some of the western states and asking their governors to help in obtaining ratification of the treaty between the United States and Canada for the improvement of that waterway to accommodate ocean-going ships.

Former Governor A. J. Weaver of Falls City, and C. B. Towle of Lincoln, and Charles McCaffery of Sioux Falls, S. D., accompanied Mr. Craig when he visited Mr. Bryan at the executive mansion. All of these men have been associated with the inland waterways movement for the United States.

Several weeks ago Governor Bryan, in response to a telegram from Chicago, wired his endorsement of the great lakes seaway plan to Washington. Ten years ago, during his first term as governor, Bryan attended a meeting in Chicago in the interest of that enterprise. He told his visitors he would use his influence to help bring about favorable action by the United States senate upon the treaty which provides for its construction and operation as a joint undertaking by this country and Canada

PRESS HUNT FOR INDICTED N. Y. BANKER

Former Head of Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., Accused of Altering Institution's Books, Vanishes—Attempted Suicide After First Disappearance.

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., disappeared today for a second time from the Regent nursing home, 115 East 61st street.

William J. Donovan, chief of counsel for Harriman, who is under bail of $25,000 on a federal indictment charging alteration of the books of the bank, notified U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalie of Harriman's disappearance.

Donovan said Harriman "slipped out" through the service entrance to the home, entered a taxicab, and that a boy who was close by said the taxi driver was told to "drive to Fort Lee ferry."

Medalie at once telephoned Thomas J. Cullen, agent in charge of the U. S. bureau of investigation here, and asked him to send the usual alarm to federal guards at the Canadian border, at piers in this city and in various other seaports.

While it would take several days for the aged banker to get there unless he traveled by airplane, guards on the Mexican border also will be notified.

Harriman attempted suicide after his first disappearance from the nursing home, May 19 last. A few minutes after he was found in a Roslyn, N. Y., hotel he stabbed himself over the heart. The wound was not serious, and a few days later he had recovered sufficiently to be moved from a Mineola hospital back to the nursing home.

Police obtained the license number of the taxi and a general alarm was spread to pick up the cab.

Medalie was informed by an assistant this afternoon that Harriman had boarded a West Shore railroad train at 10.45 a. m., for Haverstraw, N. Y.

"I have no doubt that if he is alive he will be found in a day or two," Medalie said.

NEMAHA COUNTY SEEKS LOAN TO -OPERATE QUARRY

A proposal to obtain federal funds to operate a stone quarry and rock crushing plant in Nemaha county and to carry on the entire road building process within that county has been outlined to State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith in a communication from County Engineer T. C. Dougherty. The letter said that an expenditure of about $10,000 would buy a crusher and other equipment to operate the quarry, whose output could be used to build farm-to-market roads within the county. Smith is uncertain whether federal funds can be obtained for that purpose.

BEER SALE ON SUNDAY LIKELY

Council Indicates Will Not Prohibit Selling On Sabbath.

Although Commissioners Oberlies and Harm are prohibiting the sale of 3.2 beer in the clay parks, and in the restaurant at the municipal airport, it was indicated by the members of the council Monday that sale of the beverage on Sunday will be permitted here. If this is done, however, deliveries to retail establishments will have to be made Saturday night. Sunday deliveries will be prohibited.

The question of Sunday selling arose at the Monday morning conference of the commissioners in the mayor's office, with the reading of interpretations of H. R. 585, by Attorney General Paul F. Good.

The commissioners said that the wording of the "on" sale licenses will prohibit beer curb service, as it is required that the beverage be consumed on the premises.

Applications for licenses to sell beer are made to the city clerk The Applicant should first have a permit from the internal revenue collector at Omaha, however, if complications are to be avoided. Li-

Secretary C. M. Sutherland of the Nebraska petroleum marketers' association, in his latest bulletin mailed to the members, estimates that when the new national code for the oil industry goes into effect it will mean jobs for 4,626 men in this state who are now unemployed. GENERAL RAIN IN NORTHEAST

Additional Benefits to Corn Crop; Norfolk Gets Downpour.

NORFOLK, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Northeast Nebraska Monday morning received a general rain which will bring additional benefits to the corn crop, late gardens and pastures, the Chicago and Northwestern railway company reported early this afternoon.

This rain followed precipitation that fell in scattered areas in northeast and north central Nebraska and the Rosebud region of southern Dakota over the week-end.

Rain started falling between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning at Atkinson, according to the Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

Shortly after 9 o'clock in Norfolk the clouds let loose a downpour of rain that was still falling in the early afternoon.

Monday's precipitation will make the July rainfall in Norfolk considerably above normal.

Governor Bryan received a mess of trout Sunday from his secretary, Harold B. Porterfield, who is vacationing in the Black Hills.

As Rogers Sees It

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 17 — It's a good thing those Italians landed in seaplanes. If they had landed on the ground they wouldn't have had room to land for Italians. Well, they have great cause to rejoice. You know where the idea come from, don't you? Teddy Roosevelt, when he sent the fleet around the world. There was a lot of Mussolini in that old boy.

I will bet you that this Wiley Post makes it around the world and breaks his own record. I would have liked to have been in there with Post instead of the robot. And I could have if I had known as much as it does.

Well, the unemployed will be coming in pretty soon from the London conference.

A New Prophet.

Commenting upon the administration's economic program, Gallmeyer declared "the competitive system needed a new prophet—spell it either way—'profit' also." President Roosevelt was that prophet, he said.

"Let us," he told league members, "putting aside all partisan prejudices, work together, believe together and pray together so that these new policies devised to meet an emergency will have a fair chance to live."

Plea for closer co-operation with the league's foreign divisions was made by Rev. Erwin Umbach, executive secretary.

League members, representing 48 stats and 15 foreign nations, were welcomed by William E. Schlake, commissioner of Lincoln park and representative of Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois.

A personally signed letter from President Roosevelt was read before the convention. Addressed to President Gallmeyer, it said:

"May I take this ocasion of your gathering as an opportunity to congratulate you and through you the membership of your league, for its accomplishments in the past and to assure you of my best wishes for your success in the future."

About People

Mrs. Carleton Zink, 3840 Orchard street, is in the Dr. B. F. Bailey sanatorium with a fractured ankle suffered when she fell while on a picnic Sunday.

Miss Amy Palmquist of the secretary of state's office is taking a vacation trip to Chicago, where she will see the Century of Progress exposition and visit friends.

FLIERS BOUND FOR LITHUANIA DIE IN CRASH

the plane, with the fliers buried beneath and the wings hanging from trees.

A rural policeman found a route map, copies of Chicago newspapers and a pouch with letters on which were the names of Darius and Girenas and also of Victor Vesglaites of Wilkesbarre, Pa., (who served as the mechanic for the aviators).

A guard was placed at the scene by the police and, for the time being the bodies were left there.

The discovery of the tragedy followed a stormy and dark night.

Police found the gasoline tank of the Lithuanica empty. Hence they believed that the pilot came down intentionally but, because of the fog, was unable to see the treetops.

The bodies were badly mangled. Several trees snapped under the weight of the plane.

Soldin is about 400 miles short of their goal. They had covered a little over 4,000 miles of the 4,400 mile distance.

NEW YORK, July 17— (AP)— Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, Lithuanian-American fliers who crashed to their death in Pomerania today, started their attempt to fly non-stop to Lithuania without the knowledge or approval of the government.

They had waited here since May 7 to begin the flight to their native land, but never had secured permission to fly over or land in other countries. This failure was due to the fact that they would not or could not pay the $100 or so cable tolls asking permission.

"We're just going up for some more tests," the fliers told officials at Floyd Bennett field at 4:24 a. m., Lincoln time, last Saturday.

A minute later their heavily-ladened craft was headed for Europe.

The start of the non-stop flight to their native soil was the realization of an ambition long fostered by the two immigrant boys. As transport pilots in Chicago both had saved their funds over a period of years and had sought the small donations of their fellow countrymen here in order to purchase the big orange monoplane.

Trans-oceanic flying was new to them, but before the start of the 4,900 mile project they had spent months studying their charts and grooming their plane.

They carried 779 gallons of gasoline and 5 gallons of oil. For their own consumption they carried a couple dozen oranges, half as many apples, a quart of coffee and a chicken.

"We'll catch up with our eating when we get to Lithuania," they said.

Both fliers were 37 years of age and both were unmarried.

Darius was born in Taurege, Lithuania, and was brought to this country at the age of 10. His mother, Mrs. Augustine Degutis, lives in Chicago.

Girenas was born in Upina, Lithuania, and came to this country at the age of 7. Until 1931 he operated an aviation school in Chicago.

BEER SALE ON SUNDAY LIKELY

censes for sale in unincorporated villages, and at inns and roadhouses outside of cities and towns are to be obtained from county authorities.

One ruling that interested the city commissioners is that regarding sale and delivery to comuhities where licenses have been refused. For a wholsaler to deliver the new beer to Lakeview, for example, would be illegal if the county refuses to grant a license in that community.

Commissioner Paul W. Doerr said that in Lincoln, he would not restrict the hours of selling for hotels and cafes. They have organized and will take steps to regulate their business, he added, and will throw the responsibility for "beer bootlegging" on the wholesaler.

In a resolution approving the granting of a contract for a restaurant in the administration building at the municipal airport, Commissioner Harm provided the restriction that beer cannot be sold. The lessees of the airport concession are John N. Carr and Clark Hyatt. The contract is for one year, the city to receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts, as shown by daily reports. Payments to be made monthly. The lessee pays for the light and water.

MAIL ORDER BRIDE ASKS ANNULMENT

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)— Alleging fraud and deception, Mrs. Sadie Cline, 39, former Sioux Falls, S. D., stenographer, filed suit in District court for annulment of her marriage to P. A. Cline here July 10. She asserts that he represented himself to be a wealthy auto dealer from Los Angeles, when he was in reality, a carnival worker. Their romance, began by mail through a Denver correspondence agency, ended abruptly last week when Cline admitted to police that he took $100 of his wife's money the night before their wedding.

GRAVEL COMPANY FILES $273,000 ANTI-TRUST SUIT

extent of $93,013.41. The judgment asked is brought under a provision of the anti-trust act which permits recovery of three-fold damages.

Incorporators of the Allis company, other than Wickham were H. J. Petersen and Clyde W. Drew. The three men, the plaintiff claims purchased 220 acres of land adjacent to the Platte river at Allis, Burlington railroad siding twenty-two miles west of Omaha. The land, it is claimed, was conveyed to the corporation, the incorporators taking in return the capital stock. By 1929 the company's business had reached an annual output of 66,000 tons and brought in an average annual return of between forty and fifty thousand dollars, plaintiff alleges.

Charge Wickham Assigned Stock.

Alleged efforts of the Lyman-Richey and Western company interests having failed by 1930 to get the Allis company either to sell out or join in a monopoly combine, according to allegation of the plaintiff, it is claimed that Wickham was induced to sell a one-third interest in the plaintiff's land to Horatio F. Curtis, and to assign his one-third interest in the outstanding stock. The Allis company denies that Wickham personally had any interest in the land to convey. The assignment of stock was also in violation of Wickham's agreement with his business associates, it is alleged.

Wickham agreed for the National Construction Co. and other Wickham organizations the plaintiff claims, that these organizations former customers of the Allis company, would buy all gravel and sand in the future from Lyman-Richey. The Allis company complains that by this illeged action it had title to its land clouded, became an involuntary member through stockholding interests of the alleged combine, and lost business amounting to over 37,000 tons annually.

By reason of the ostensible connection of the plantiff with the defendants, is is alleged by the Allis company it was made a party defendant in an injunction proceeding brought by the attorney general to enjoin a combine in the restraint of trade and commerce in the production of sand and gravel in Nebraska. An injunction was later entered against all the parties in the present case other than the Allis company, the National Construction Co. and Wickham. The Allis firm claims it lost $5,000 worth of business by reason of its being made to appear a member of a conspiracy.

In alleged furtherance of efforts to drive the Allis company out of business it is claimed that the Lyman-Richey company levied on and bid in nine pieces of Allis company machinery for a $1,000 indebtedness of the Allis firm to the Lyman-Richey Co. Claim is made that when the plaintiff company undertook to continue its operations in 1933, the defendants under pretext of removing the property bought under execution, came in with a force of men and machinery and dismantled the entire Allis plant.

Allegation is made that equipment worth in excess of $5,000, not included in that sold under levy, was carried away. It is further claimed that the defendants as purported assignees of a judgment of less than $800 in favor of the Nebraska Power Co., tore out and carried away the track of the Allis company, along with tearing down and carrying away the power and light lines, and telephone equipment.

igsberg to Moscow in 3 hours and 35 minutes and had therefore an elapsed time of 30 hours and 10 minutes on his arrival in the soviet capital.

He was behind the schedule he had arranged for himself, but was 4 hours and 24 minutes ahead of the flight he made with Gatty.

Slowed Down By Rain

The Oklahoman lost time in Berlin because of delays in refueling and later in Koenigsberg because of rain.

His monoplane swooped down suddenly out of the west, circled October field, and then made a perfect landing. The airman took by surprise airport officials and the corps of foreign correspondents, who had not expected him to halt in Moscow, particularly because he spent the night at Koenigsberg, a comparatively short distance away.

Post climbed out stiffly as his plane taxied to a halwt. He swayed from exhaustion after his feet touched the ground.

"I need some work on the ship and also some gas and oil," he said.

Airport officials hustled him into a private room at airdrome headquarters and a doctor examined him.

The airman gave orders to remove the cowling of the motor. Aviators said this indicated he had experienced some mechanical difficulty.

To questions about how long he intended to stay in Moscow, he replied: "No longer than I can help."

It was noted that the plane was dripping gasoline from the undercarriage just below the pilot's seat. This, airmen said, indicated a leak in one of the main tanks.

Nearly 200 officials and employes of the airport, with a sprinkling of members of the foreign colony, comprised Post's reception committee.

After a talk with the officials in a private conference room the airman went back to his plane and directed soviet mechanics repairing a broken oil line which forced him to land here. He also ordered three tanks filled with gasoline, but said he needed no oil.

Declaring he hoped to get off in two hours for Novosibirsk in Siberia, he remarked: "I feel fine."

The physician bore him out by pronouncing him in excellent physical condition. His right eye, however, was very tired from the strain, (he lost his left eye in an accident several years ago, and the doctor gave him a lotion for it.

Post entered Russia at Vitibsk. He explained his landing at Koenigsberg by saying his automatic pilot and other instruments were functioning unsatisfactorily at that time and he feared he might lose his way.

FARMER VICTIM TERRIBLE BURNS

Blazing Gasoline Mistakenly Thrown Upon Him By Brother.

WOOD RIVER, Neb., July 17—(AP) —Gay Garrison, 37, living a mile west of Alda, suffered second degree burns over a considerable portion of his body when the contents of a small can of gasoline was thrown on his body. Although the burns cover practically one-third of his body, his chances for recovery are believed good.

Garrison and his brother were working on a tractor and were having trouble with the gasoline feed. The brother taking a tomato can filled with gasoline attempted to prime the machine by pouring the gasoline on the carburetor while the motor was running.

The machine backfired just as he began pouring and ignited the gasoline. Without looking where he was throwing the contents of the can, he tossed it upon his brother, the contents striking him near the waist.

Garrison started to run in the direction of a water tank about 50 yards away, but a brother-in-law threw him to the ground and the flames were extinguished by rolling him in a blanket.

He was rushed to the office of a physician in Alda, where his burns were treated. There are burns encircling the waist, the right thigh and both arms and hands.

5,000 EMPLOYES STRIKE IN SOUTH

HIGH POINT, N. C., July 17—(AP) —A strike affecting approximately 5,000 hosiery and furniture plant operatives went into effect here today when mill officials failed to meet a demand for a 25 per cent wage increase and an 8-hour day.

Twenty-two seamless hosiery plants employing approximately 4,000 workers and 25 furniture factories employing approximately 1,000 operatives were closed.

Several window panes were broken when employes attempted to return to work at one hosiery mill, but this disturbance was quieted and the plant closed.

CITY DISALLOWS DROWNING CLAIM

John Stump's Request For $5,000 Due To Death Denied.

The city council Monday approved a recommendation by City Attorney Kier disallowing the claim of John Stump for $5,000 as result of the drowning July 2 of his daughter, Marcella Ann, at the municipal swimming pool. The attorney said that in operating the pool the city is acting in a governmental capacity and is not liable.

Upon the recommendation of Commissioner Bair, the council ordered that a warrant for $385.45 be drawn in favor of William E. Pegans, injured while working on the city dump, April 19, 1932. The amount is the balance due Pegans as compensation under an award by the district court and will be paid through the court.

The resolution also provides for the payment of $12.80 weekly for sixty weeks, for partial permanent disability. Following the accident, Pegans sued the garbage hauler whose wagon was being unloaded at the time. He was given an award of $1,500. Part of this went to pay medical expenses and attorney fees, and the balance was credited to the city.

Upon the recommendation of Commissioner Doerr, B. F. Vreeland of Denver was awarded a contract for the purchase by the city of 100 poles 35 feet long for the lighting department. The price is $7.98 each.

A communication to the council from C. Miller, was ordered filed. Miller asked when the council is going to stop working for Chicago millionaires, and build a municipal artificial gas plant.

Commissioner Oberlies told the council that he would act immediately to comply with the ordinance regarding a loud speaker at the municipal swimming pool, against which many protests have been filed. "I will have it toned down or see that it is removed," he declared. The complaint have been made mostly by men who work at night. They say the speaker is so loud it disturbs their sleep during the day.

HUTTON FILES DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST AIMEE

will file suit for divorce today in superior court on the ground of mental cruelty.

Specifically, said the baritone choristor who married the Angelus temple evangelist 22 months ago on a flying trip to Yuma, Ariz., he was tired of having the intimate details of his married life "publicly discussed."

Mrs. McPherson-Hutton is on the high seas, enroute home from Europe.

Divorce, often rumored, is sought by Hutton as a climax to a tumultuous wedded life which, only a fortnight or so ago, was punctuated by serio-comic cablegram from his wife in Paris, announcing the birth of a son.

Subsequently the explanation drifted out of temple headquarters that Aimee was merely trying to find out where the "leak" was occurring in confidential messages she sent the temple.

That Baby Hoax.

The complaint to be filed today alleges Aimee made him and his married life "ridiculous" by perpetrating "a hoax as to the birth of a baby," which was "bandied about in the press of the world," when, in fact, "no baby was born."

That was when Aimee lay in a Paris hospital recovering from what ultimately was described as a plastic operation.

Said Hutton aside from the complaint:

"I am sorry to find it necessary to take such steps, but the really well meaning folk of the temple need peace and a rest from hippodrome publicity in order to carry on. I must admit that married life for me has been no bed of roses. At times I was tempted to call it a "martial" state instead of a marital one."

Then he disclosed plans for a theatrical career beginning Thursday. He will open at a Long Beach theater and then continue appearances in an eastward trek already booked.

THOUSANDS GET PAY HIKE UNDER RECOVERY PACTS

mainspring of his program for restoring prosperity.

Originally all this day was to bring was beginning of operation for the cotton textile industry's code. By it 450,000 workers were to go on the 40-hour week with all wages increased, in their present proportion, above minimums of $12 a week in Dixie, $13 elsewhere.

But the other textiles, with codes hastily framed, asked to come under cotton's labor terms today. The president last night signed executive orders effecting agreements with each. Estimates of the additional number of workers involved were indefinite but 250,000 was considered conservative.

Steel proclaimed its raises without waiting for presidential sanction. The much smaller cement industry has asked approval for quick increases and limited hours. The underwear industry, operating hundreds of knitting mills with employment rivalling the weavers, will vote the first of this week on joining the cotton procession. Wool men, with a code now awaiting hearing, may join the speeded movement.

The new quickstep of business shoved into the background a plan of Johnson's for issuing a general call to all business to raise wages and create new jobs by cutting the hours of present employes. It was talked over in great detail yesterday on the deck of the presidential yacht Sequoia between the president and his administrator but the ultimate decision was put off.

RECOVERY DRIVE WILL BE PUSHED

eral of these have been submitted to the recovery organization within the last few days.

Another clothing group filed a code today calling for a 40-hour week and a 20 per cent wage increase.

The agreement was submitted by the "industrial recovery association of clothing manufacturers," made up mostly of independents. The first code was submitted by the "clothing Manufacturers Association of the United States."

Seek Reappraisal Of School Lands In Cherry County

Reappraisal of 280,000 acres of state school land in Cherry county, comprising about one-seventh of the total acreage owned by the state, was requested Monday by six of its citizens who called on Land Commissioner Conklin. In the party were County Commissioners Dan Hanna and Ralph Baker; a Valentine chamber of commetce committee comprising Harry Shosser, James Mansour, and Charles Lewis, and Attorney J. A. Quigley.

"We don't think all the school lands in Cherry county should be reduced, but there are a good many tracts whose present rental valuations are altogether out of line with what they would bring, if placed on the market for sale," Conklin was told.

It will require two or three weeks' time for the land commissioner or his deputy to get over Cherry county and revalue all the school lands it contains.

The same delegation also called at the state engineer's office and asked to have the Great Plains highway north from Valentine to the South Dakota state line and south to North platte included among this year's surfacing projects.

Garden county commissioners put in a request for some highway work in their county to help furnish employment for heads of about 80 families now dependent on public aid.

FLOUR HIGHEST IN FIVE YEARS

MINNEAPOLIS, July 17—(AP)— Flour broke a five-year record today in keeping step with a rapidly rising grain list which sent flax bounding to a level 16 cents above the close of Saturday.

September flax opened 8 cents higher at $2.34 a bushel today and gained another 8 cents within a half-hour ofthe opening.

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: Georgie Blanecraft's life has become very complicated of late. She refused Clifford Asher's offer of marriage because she loves Nicholas Boyd. Boyd is in Germany trying to have removed the scar that has ended his film career. Nicholas' wife, Bernie Boyd, is in England making a movie, and evinces considerable interest in Georgie's step-father, Bishop. And Bishop and Evelyn, Georgie's mother are not on too good terms. Bernie talks with Bishop and Georgie at her studio.

Chapter 26.
FAMILY QUARREL.

Ever since she arrived at the studio Georgie had been trying to gain enough courage to ask about Nicholas, and now she did so, in a quick, nervous little voice.

"Is Mr. Boyd better? You said he was ill."

Bernie's pretty face hardened a little.

"I suppose he must be," she said disinterestedly. "I really haven't heard anything definite," and then she turned away as if anious for the subject to drop.

Bishop was looking at Georgie with a faint smile, but he only said:

"Do you think we can tear your mother away now?"

Evelyn was thoroughly enjoying herself, and on the way back to London she talked with great enthusiasm.

"Such delightful people, all of them. I never expected to be made so welcome. Didn't you think they were most delightful, Bishop?"

"Considering most of the money in the concern is mine, they could not very well be otherwise," he answered.

"Really, Bishop, to speak to me like that in front of Georgie," Evelyn complained. In a moment she went on. "By the way, Bishop, have you made any definite arrangements about going to Germany? I have several invitations to stay with people, and if I knew your plans I could make my own."

Georgie glanced quickly at Bishop; he had not moved or opened his eyes, but after a moment he said quietly:

"Make what plans you like my dear. I may not be going to Germany, after all, but that need not interefere with you."

"Not going!" Evelyn colored angrily. "Really, Bishop, after racing me half across the world for the specific reason that you must go, to calmly turn round and tell me you may change your mind. What on earth does it mean, may I ask?"

"Simply that I may change my mind, that is all!"

"Well, really!" Evelyn said again; she looked at Georgie for sympathy. "You are the most trying man I ever knew. I give up everything at a moment's notice to bring you over here, and all for nothing. Have you realized at last that there is nothing really the matter with you?"

"Possibly."

"I always said you would," she declared triumphantly. "Men are such babies. They get a pain and they think they are dying. Well, I hope in future you will pay attention to me, instead of being so inconsiderate. If I hadn't the patience of Job, I should have a great deal to say; you are fortunate in having a wife with such an even temper."

"Very fortunate," Bishop agreed calmly.

"And now all my plans are upset, I suppose," his wife went on. "Of course you will expect me to stay with you in that dreadful hotel. You know how I loathe hotels, even the best of them and I had so looked forward to going to stay with the Hunters in Scotland."

"Go by all means. I am not preventing you."

Evelyn flushed; she did not want to stay with her husband, but on the other hand she did not like to be told she was not necessary to him.

"And what do you suppose I can do with Georgie?" she asked shrilly.

"Georgie can stay with me," Bishop said.

There was a little silence, then Evelyn said nastily:

"Well, you seem to have arranged it very nicely between you. Do you want to stay with your step-father, Georgie?"

"I don't mind what I do," Georgie said. "I'll go back to Uncle Edward if you like."

Bishop opened his eyes suddenly and looked at her, and she added hurriedly: "Of course I knew I couldn't always stay with you."

Evelyn said agrrievedly, "I could take you to Scotland, of course, but I doubt whether you would be happy with me."

"Or whether you would be happy with her," Bishop said.

She flashed him an angry glance. "Really I seem to be in wrong whatever I say," she complained. "And heaven know I have tried to do my best for you both, but there is no gratitudein the world."

"You've been very kind," Georgie said, wondering in bewilderment why the thought of returning to Edward Bancroft had given her a real thrill.

In a way she had been happy in London, and had enjoyed the excitement of her new clothes and of being taken about, but she had not met anyone who had really interested her, and sometimes she was conscious of a little feeling of weariness, of wanting to get away and be free once again.

"I had hoped," her mother went on, "that amongst all the people I have introduced to you, you would have found someone to whom you could take a fancy. But I never knew a girl like you. Men don't seem to interest you as they did me."

Georgie opened her eyes wide.

"Someone to marry, do you mean?" she gasped.

"You must eventually marry," Evelyn said. "All girls marry unless there is something very peculiar about them. When I was you age I had had half a dozen proposals, and I suppose you have not had one."

"Yes, one," Georgie said with a twinkle.

"Some unspeakable young man whom I have never seen, I suppose," her mother said tartly. "Why did you not tell me?"

"It only happened last night."

"Last night?" Evelyn's face cleared. "Oh, then you mean that nice Clifford Asher? Well, that is not so bad. His father is a famous man, and no doubt Clifford will one day be quite well off. I am very pleased with you, Georgie."

"But I'm not going to marry him," Georgie said quietly.

"Why not?"

"I don't love him."

"Well, of all the absurd reasons—" Evelyn said.

For ten days Georgie watched the mail hoping against hope that Nicholas Boyd would reply to her letter. She had found out exactly how long the mail took from Berlin to London, but even allowing for a couple of days to elapse between the receipt of her own letter and the mailing of his it was too long, and she began to lose heart.

"You're losing your color," Evelyn told her one morning. "It makes you lok old and tired. You'd better use some rouge."

"I never had any color," Georgie said. She felt irritable. "I was always brown, and I hate rouge."

"You're very bad tempered," Evelyn said. "Really, between you and your step-father, it's a wonderful thing I can keep my own temper at all," she hesitated a moment, then added: "Have you decided what you want to do; in the future, I mean?"

"While you are in Scotland?" Georgie asked. "I suppose I had better go back home."

"How you can call that unspeakable place 'home' amazes me," Evelyn said.

Georgie was a little perplexed by her mother's attitude: shehad not expected that this sudden sense of "devotion" and "duty" would last forever, but neither had she expected it to end so summarily. She made a mental calculation and found that it was six weeks since Evelyn had descended on Edward Bancroft's house and taken her away; sometimes it seemed longer.

"What would you like me to do?" she asked.

Evelyn looked nonplussed; she was not used to plain speaking and Georgie often disconcerted her. As a matter of fact she had grown a little tireg of the girl's constant companionship. She was a woman of moods, and it had been an impulse of sheer boredom that had made her seize upon Georgie as a new distraction.

"I'll speak to Bishop about it," Evelyn said evasively. "Im in a hurry now.Goodbye till tonight, and do put some rouge on your cheeks.

As if the color of one's face was the only thing that mattered, Georgie thought.

She had not seen Clifford Asher since the night he asked her to marry him, though he had rung up once or twice. It was another friendship gone into the rag bag. Somehow she had counted on Clifford, perhaps unfairly.

Nation Watches Vote In South On Prohibition

Both Sides Predict Win In Tennessee, Alabama And Arkansas.

MEMPHIS Tenn., July 17.—(AP)—Three states of the deep south vote on repeal this week in elections which both friends and foes of prohibition recognise as a crucial test in the national campaign.

Alabama and Arkansas hold their elections tomorrow while Tennessee votes Thursday. Leaders on both sides in all three states claim victory.

The sixteen states which already have voted have favored repeal. The repealists believe if they can swing the south into line, their battle is virtually won.

Farley Entered Fight.

For weeks, intensive campaigns have been conducted through the three states. Postmaster General Farley capped the repeal campaign here this week end calling upon Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee to "keep the covenant" with President Roosevelt by voting to repeal the Eighteenth amendment.

Repealists, stumping the voting states, have raised the issues of party loyalty and of states' rights—both dear to the democratic south. Anti-repeal campaigners, many of them church leaders, have called attention to the south's dry traditions and warned of danger of return of the saloon and possible effects on social conditions. Repealists generally were in control of state organizations.

"Vote Dry," Urges York.

PALL MALL, Tenn., July 17.—(AP)—Sergeant Alvin C. York, World war hero, told his neighbors at a dry rally here yesterday to disregard the repeal advice given by Postmaster General James A. Farley in an address at Memphis Saturday night.

"We don't need these eastern guys to come down here and tell us how to vote," said York in urging support of the Eighteenth amendment in Thursday's balloting.

Tax Suit Against Mellon Dismissed

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—A $220,000,000 tax suit against Andrew W. Mellon and other former treasury officials was dismissed today by Justice James M. Proctor in the District of Columbia supreme court.

The suit was filed by David A. Olson, former investigator for a special senate committee, and charged Mellon, former Secretary Ogden Mills and several others with conspiring to defraud the government in the settlement of foreign steamship company taxes.

Justice Proctor, in his opinion sustaining a demurrer raised by the defendants, said the suit did not state a "good present" cause of action.

Unless Olson files the suit in an amended form, the dismissal today means the end of the case.

BARTENDER KILLS TWO HOLDUPS IN CHICAGO SALOON

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP)—Twice in the past fortnight George Capedona's saloon has been the scene of holdups, causing his brother, Peter, bartender, to vow he would foil any further attempts.

Today he made good his threats and as a result two unidentified bandits lost their lives. Standing behind a partition when three handitmen carrying shotguns and a revolver entered the place and announced it was a holdup, he took careful aim with a shot gun and fired four shots.

Two of the men dropped dead in their tracks and the third fled.

World Fair Attendance Passes 5,000,000 Mark

CHICAGO, July 17.—(UP)— Attendance at the Century of Progress exposition passed the five million mark today.

With the visit of Gen. Italo Balbo and his command of Italian airmen proving a principal attraction at the world's fair, the third largest attendance was recorded yesterday. Approximately 150,000 persons attended during the day.

Miss Marjorie Fogg, 18, of Chicago was the five millionth visitor because she arrived at the fair grounds a half an hour late for an engagement.

Good Pattern Helps.

Having a definite aim for daily tasks is much easier than taking things hit and miss. Choosing a good and simple pattern for your daily activities, whatever they may be, makes it possible to get more accomplished and to have more leisure to enjoy.

In making a dress a good pattern is half the battle. If you follow the pattern exactly, put in the notches and other pattern guides and follow instructions, you are assured of your garment going together like clockwork.

A pattern for the daily routine works in much the same manner. Not all patterns fit all people. They have to be measured and changed to fit the individual. But, once altered to fit individual requirements, then followed accurately, work is simplified and success assured.

The pattern for summer housework should be that of eliminating all unnecessary tasks rather than seeing how much one can do. An important part of the summer plan should be to include ample time for sunning, as it is now believed that the sun builds bodies during the summer to withstand the ravages of the winter's uncertainties.

There must be some sort of pattern with a definite goal to make life less complicated.

Women Are Condemned.

Women are not all innocent victims. They, too, dissipate and make spectacles of themselves at parties. Why place all the blame on the men?

Thus writes "Thomas T"., in a spurt of indignation against a recent declaration that women encourage men's drinking propensities by being the tolerant of them.

It's quite true that women are often a party to unlovely exhibitions of drinking to excess. At times they get boisterous, maudlin and are as offensive, or more so, than any dissipated man. But the difference is that the reaction toward a woman's exhibitionism is not one of tolerance. The girl who gets intoxicated is still regarded as disgusting, objectionable, horrid. No one laughs next day over her exhibitions as they do over the man's. The single standard is never more marked than in this instance. The woman who makes a scene of herself is not condoned either by men or by women. Thus she pays the penalty and pays for it high.

Middle-Aged Student.

One of the most interesting things about modern life is the fact that it is generally known that people can go on learning things as well when they are middle-aged as when they are young, and that this knowledge is adapted to make life richer and fuller throughout the years.

"Flossie" writes that her mother-in-law makes fun of her because she has enrolled in several classes each session of school even though she has daughters that are in high school.

The mother-in-law is displaying her limitations, while "Flossie" is showing very good judgment in developing her mind and knowledge in every way she can.

No Novelty.

Caroline: The swaggering, conceited man is no novelty. Sometimes his bumptiousness is merely a defense to cover up his real uncertainties. Try to understand the man's motives and either condemn or overlook them, since he is so worth-while and enjoyable in other respects.

Posthumous Fidelity.

Dear Minerva: I suffered the loss of my wife about a year ago and as we had been married over twenty years and were without children, I am now all alone among millions of people. I feel very lonesome indeed. I have a nice home all paid for and a little money besides, but it's so empty and meaningless when I don't have anyone to share it with. Now I have for some time been acquainted with a woman a few years my junior and am beginning to think quite a little of her. Would I have the right to try and establish a home again? This girl is a wonderful pal and we have such wonderful visits together. But neighbors and friends are nearly having a spell about our friendship. What do you think? Do I have to travel the rest of my life alone, or do I have the right to try another home regardless of what others think.—LONELY.

A. I don't know what motive prompts some neighbors and friends to demand posthumous fidelity from a bereaved man or woman. But they do. You have to ignore their protests, whether they are the unspoken variety or outspoken criticism, for you surely have every right to win for yourself a second wife, and restored home life, if you can do so.

Muny And Bethany Bands Play Sunday Before Big Crowds

Two band concerts were given in Lincoln parks Sunday. At Bethany park, the Bethany community band of thirty members played under the direction of J. E. Moore. The municipal band played at Antelope park, directed by William T. Quick, before the largest crowd of the season. Lulu Jo Hyland gave a group of soprano numbers. John E. Shildneck played trumpet solos, and Charles Putney led community singing.

At Bethany park the concert, heard by 500, was concluded in time for those who desired to go to the concert at Antelope park. The band will appear at other parks during the summer. It was organized early in January, and is made up of players living in Bethany and that part of the city.

Rev. Morrell Preaches at Plymouth Church

"Refining Fires," was the subject of Rev. George S. Morrell, pastor of the First Methodist church at Norfolk, who addressed the Sunday morning congregation of the First-Plymouth Congregational church in the absence of Rev. Ben F. Wyland who is vacationing. He stressed the need for "enthusiastic fire" in Christian stewardship and suggested that the difficulties of economic depression be considered as flames testing the metal of the individual.

Export Grain Moving

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP)—Export grain is moving from the port of New York in large volume than a few months ago, but is running well below the movement of a year ago, according to figures announced by the port authority today.

During the four weeks ended on June 31, exports of domestic and Canadian grain at New York totaled 2,435,000 bushels, a decline of 2,627,000 bushels from the corresponding period a year ago. The shipments were, however, nearly five times larger than for the preceding four weeks, approximately 466,000 bushels.

WASHINGTON, July 17.— (AP) — President Roosevelt has a slight cold and he remained in the residence part of the white house today to transact such business as was before him.

He contracted a cold riding to Washington last night in an open car from Benedict, Md., in a drizzling rain.

The cold was described by his secretary, Marvin H. McIntyre, as "slight." It required no medical attention.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE DOUG.

GONE are the good old days of gilded and golden radiance in the motion picture industry, if such a personage as Douglas Fairbanks knows his caviar. It has been a glittering pageant—as unreal as anything in American life—princely salaries, a royal atmosphere both on the set and off, people with all the weaknesses of human clay elevated to the exacting role of popular idols and compelled to live it both at work and at play when they desired nothing quite so much as an opportunity to be themselves.

Sir Douglas has wearied of it all. He's been hobnobbing with royalty, the great and the near-great, in recent years, and he confesses an overpowering weariness with the industry. He is concerning himself with bigger things. To an interviewer recently, Doug indirectly gave an intimation of the metamorphosis that has taken place in an exceedingly talented, agile, and acrobatic man. He discreetly shifted the interviewer from conversations touching upon the movies to a discussion of the situation in Europe, with particular reference to international economics. He skidded for a moment to dwell upon Confucius and philosophy, and then was right back in airing the French policy in Indo-China. He did pause long enough in nibbling at the edges of statesmanship, to deliver this exceedingly interesting view of the motion picture industry:

"Unless the film industry can figure out something to lick that thing," he said pointing to the radio, "unless we can send our entertainment into the homes and make people pay for it in the same lavish manner they pay for some fascinating novelty, the motion picture industry will become just another business, sanely run with its margins of profit on good pictures and its losses on bad ones. The time is over when mere motion pictures are a big thing."

Doug's nearness to the industry, his intimate and active participation in it, may blind him to the developments that have taken place. Many of the laymen, a generous slice of the public which pays for the entertainment, will testify there has been a magnificent evolution in motion picture art even during the trying days of the depression. For one thing, it was said, that a historical picture would not appeal to the public. "Rasputin," done by the Barrymores with consummate skill, revealed the falsity of the notion. Then on the heels of "Rasputin," "Cavalcade" made its appearance, and it received a great deal of favor. There is an American historical picture in the making now, which is expected to prove equally successful.

Still a second development in the movies which meets with the utmost approval is the appearance of a large number of the outstanding actors and actresses of the legitimate stage. The result has been that through motion pictures, much improved acting has tended to force the industry to center attention upon material worthy of exacting the skill and ability of the cast. There has been less emphasis upon sets and more upon plays and players.

It all has taken place so gradually that perhaps the industry itself is not aware of the change.

Nevertheless Fairbanks suggests an interesting question. Is there something inherently associated with the motion picture industry in the public mind, which takes it out of the ranks of business? Would it lose its glamor if the realistic side of it tended to obscure the bizarre surroundings under which it grew up in the war and the post-war periods? We're inclined to doubt it. On the contrary, there will be many who will regard the changes taking place as wholesome and healthy.

C. C. C. DESERTERS.

REPORTS of "desertions" from civil conservation corps camps by boys who claim they are being "worked like slaves" will be regarded as encouraging, rather than discouraging. They indicate that the youths are earning their $1 a day and that they are undergoing the discipline that comes from first acquaintance with hard manual labor.

None of the boys have left camps in this state but a number of deserters have been drifting through Nebraska. Most of them are boys from the tenement districts of New York and other large eastern cities. These youths have been loafing in the city streets for the last few years when it was impossible for them to find jobs. They expected that the reforestation camps would prove enjoyable places for eating and loafing at the government's expense.

Unquestionably these boys suffer from even mild labor. They find that hanging on to a shovel, hoe or pick in the hot sun is no fun even when they don't take the job seriously. After a few days work no doubt they felt that their backs had been permanently crippled. They are aggrieved and convinced that Uncle Sam is a second Simon Legree.

Under such conditions, the "quitters" among them are taking French leave. They're bumming their way back to home and delightful unemployment prospects. But it must be remembered that these deserters, for whom no punishment awaits except the scorn of their friends who stick to the job, are in the slim minority.

The other boys, who stay on the job will benefit much more than they realize at this time. It's true that they are not earning much money and must turn most of what they get over to relatives. They are learning to have a healthy respect for manual labor, however, and work is teaching them some lessons that can't be found in any text books.

WATER LILIES AT NEBRASKA CITY.

NEBRASKA CITY, with her lovely homes and scenic beauty denied many Nebraska communities, lays claim to fresh glory. The Nebraska City News-Press Sunday directs attention to the garden pools in and around the city. There are scores of them and at this season of the year, the water lilies they nourish are at the height of their beauty.

One home boasts of a tropical variety, which unfolds its delicate petals while the sun is sinking below the western horizon, and which is the most beautiful between 10 and 11 o'clock at night, when its delicate pink coloring bursts into full bloom.

Another Nebraska City home specializes in rose colored lilies, while others have unusual arrangements of deep red, blue, and white. At one home, Trail's End, is a pool featuring lavender shades, at another may be found lilies deep red, yellow, apricot, and pink colors.

For all the time and effort expended, and it does require real care and real work, Nebraska Cityans undoubtedly feel well repaid. They have made a distinct contribution to their community.

WRITTEN IN THE SKIES.

THE blazing scroll written in the sky by gallant aviators was etched with tragedy over the weekend, although the brilliant exploit of the Italian squadron under General Balbo and the even more magnificent solo flight around the world by Wiley Post will blot out largely the fate which befell two Chicagoans born in Lithuania, who attempted to fly to their native land, only to die during the stormy night in a forced landing in Germany.

America has become accustomed to trans-Atlantic crossings, but it experienced a new thrill when General Balbo brought his fleet to rest on the sparkling waters of Lake Michigan just outside the Chicago municipal pier. Perhaps it was the implication of what the flight revealed which left the throngs a little sober, a little awed, and more than a little impressed. Balbo and his companions pioneered in a new field. While trans-Atlantic flights have been numerous, with the sole exception of the American naval expedition around the world a few years ago, this is the first time that a fleet of airplanes crossed the ocean. It did it so easily, with so little apparent effort, there was the undefinable feeling that those who have attempted to portray the next great war have not told the half of it. It was this martial note in a good will visit, not intentionally projected to be sure, but lurking in the background, nevertheless, which set many people to thinking. The speed and the durability which have been added to airplanes since 1918 mean that the next great battle of the skies will be far more spectacular, far more fateful in its bearing upon civilian populations than what took place in the World war.

There was a stroke of genius in General Balbo's exploit. He brought a perfectly trained, a thoroughly efficient squadron to America. He put it through its test with a mechanical precision which was marvelous. The planes he and his associates flew were worthy of the splendid crew—great powerful birds, which even in the face of contrary winds attained incredible speed and kept straight on their course.

Wiley Post was flying over familiar territory. His trip from New York to Berlin in twenty-five hours provides a startling comparison when it is recalled that Lindbergh, flying alone, and with less climatic opposition than Post encountered, required over thirty hours—approximately thirty-three and a half—to reach Paris. Post shaved eight and a half hours off of the time, after having covered 500 miles more than Lindbergh. His average flying speed through storm and darkness was approximately 152 miles an hour throughout the entire period. Lindbergh's plane averaged about 110 miles an hour. The Oklahoman, unaccompanied except for a robot, flying a course which he had covered with a companion to set a new record, is hours ahead of the pace he had established in his initial flight. Before another day, he will be face to face with his last great challenge—the storm kingdom of the Bering sea.

END OF MORATORIUM IN SIGHT.

ANOTHER sign that the new deal is working is found in the semi-official announcement that before the end of this year the restrictions under which life insurance companies have been working for several months will be lifted and they will resume making policy loans and allowing cash surrender withdrawals as in normal times.

This cannot be done until state insurance authorities in Nebraska and elsewhere give their consent; but the companies themselves are understood to be desirous of getting back to the old status at an early date. In a number of states the restrictions have already been raised in part, and in a few they have been done away with entirely.

The moratorium laws and regulations that were put into effect last winter seemed to be necessary at that time to protect insurance companies against having their cash resources depleted through the multitude of cash surrender and loan applications then pouring in on them. The hoarding movement was then on in full blast, and everybody was seeking to convert his assets into cash. Also, many insurance policyholders were in desperate need of money to meet their needs and obligations, being practically forced by circumstances to sacrifice their indemnity contracts for the necessities of the moment.

That situation no longer exists. Since the government embarked on its new program, the currency scare has faded away, great sums of money have been returned to the banks, commodity prices have gained substantially, unemployment has been reduced, and practically every kind of business has experienced a decided improvement.

Due to these developments, the insurance companies are no longer under such intense pressure as they were a few months ago. Their policyholders can see daylight ahead and are not not clamoring to borrow money or turn in their policies for cash. On the other hand, premium collections are better and mortgage customers are again paying principal and interest installments. All this puts the companies on a much better footing.

The improvement that has taken place and appears to be continuing will mean a good deal to Nebraska and the city of Lincoln. A number of life insurance companies have their business headquarters in this city, and others elsewhere in the state. Restoration of financial liquidity will not only solidify and bulwark the protection given their policyholders, but will make available more money for investment within the state, chiefly in farm and other real estate mortgages.

TRUCK WAR GOES ON.

THE truck war along the Kansas border, instead of improving appears to be getting more aggravated, and that no understanding has been reached between the officials of the two states is almost past comprehension. If reports coming from the border counties are reliable, conditions there are deplorable, and real trouble may be looked for if immediate action is not taken to bring about relief.

A dispatch from Falls City says that Monday night a trap was set for Nebraska motorists east of Wathena and that all passenger cars as well as trucks were stopped and checked for licenses. It was further stated that no less than 25 trucks were held up at one time.

This would seem to be in direct conflict with the American idea of free trade between the states. There can be no doubt that where commercial truck or bus lines ply regular routes between points in different states, each state should have the right to collect its regular license fees, just as railroads are required to pay taxes on equipment, as well as upon right of way and terminals.

But where a truck or motor car goes into another state on a casual trip there is neither justice nor good business in compelling the operator to take out a local license. People living in the border towns or on farms adjacent to a state line should not be required to confine their business activities to the commonwealth in which they reside, and a policy which compels them to do so is certain to react against the state or community which would make such a course necessary.

The officials of Nebraska and Kansas should see to it that the senseless warfare which has been in progress for a number of weeks is quickly terminated. It is doing no one any good, is injuring legitimate business, is contrary to American principles and is very likely to lead to serious consequence.

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. QUESTION.
Sayre, Pa.

How can a young man of some financial means best serve the poor lads of his city?

ANSWER.

By living with them for a time. Many years ago another young man asked your question and answered it in his own way. He left his luxurious home in London and slept under the bridges and in vacant lots with the lads who were shoe polishers. After thoroughly acquainting himself with these waifs he organized their infant industry, headed it, put on the uniform the boys wore and ate their rough food.

A little later he rented an old loft, set up tables a big cook stove and gathered them in from the archways and benches of the Thames Embankment. There he read to them the story of the young Carpenter whose hands were calloused with toil and who went from His Mother's home to face poverty, hardship and a cruel death.

He captured that rough and warm-hearted crew of forlorn laddies who were his daily care by living with them as well as for them. Hundreds became useful members of society. A great institute for unprivileged boys arose on the foundation he laid. The secret of this man's success was that he emulated his Master. He gave himself.

Do likewise and you cannot fail. It isn't your money the boys crave, it is you as a man with a sacrificial spirit who will identify himself with them.

QUESTION
Lexington, Ky.

When I went to church with my parents I heard a great deal about the spiritual life. It was understood to be the life of prayer and devotion. But in these days when I don't go to church any more I hear more about spiritual life from people whom I know to be agnostics so far as religion is concerned. What sort of spiritual life is there for men who don't pray or worship God?

ANSWER.

Some dividing lines intended to make life a matter of watertight compartments are breaking down. Once we believed that physics and chemistry were entirely separate; today their boundaries overlap. The hitherto commonly accepted classifications of people as secularists, agnostics, atheists or believers are likewise subject to qualification.

The mysteries of the universe and of mankind are beyond the solutions of human intelligence. But whether we attribute them to the Creative Mind or deny their intentional origin we have to face the facts in the case. Out of our attitude toward these facts comes our spiritual life.

To be concrete, Richard Jeffries' relation to Nature was vastly different to that of John Wesley and Emerson's diluted pantheism has few if any connectink links with the creed of Ignatius Loyola. Yet each of these men had a pronounced spiritual life, the values of which are to be appraised by its effect upon their characters and service. Doubtless you have met persons who tell you they have a religion of their own. They mean that they are unwilling or unable to fit themselves into any institutional system or definite creed. They often possess reverential feelings, a realization of creation's strength and beauty and of life's sanctities.

Nevertheless, as I conceive it, religion is essentially a bestowal of God's free grace which sanctifies the loftiest motives and aspirations of the human soul. Its varieties do not effect its underlying oneness, and they must be judged by the fruits they produce. Fom this viewpoint Christ's Christianity is for me the supreme Faith.

QUESTION.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

What is the real aim of bolshevism and why do other nations refuse to recognize it?

ANSWER.

The real aim of bolshevism is to produce a new world order in which the state, embodied in a personal autocrat or a small oligarchy, shall use its citizenship and all property rights as it pleases. Since 1914 we have seen eleven monarchical dynasties crash. But they have not created nearly as profound an agitation as tre rise of Sovietism.

Its motto is "power to the proletariat." Its practice is a slightly modified form of Oriental absolutism. Its attraction consists in its promise that no racial nor social differences shall exist, and that all shall live in economic equality and fraternity. Its appeal is increased by the weakness of the worn-out systems it supplanted; and Russian passivity, inured to tyrpnny furnishes the available human material for bolshevism's exploitation.

Other nations oppose it because their leaders are convinced that it rest on erroneous theories and results in the enslavement of the people. Notwithstanding its gross abuses, individualism has its just rights, and when these are obliterated by political usurpation freedom becomes a farce. Moreover, the truculent attitude of the Soviet leaders and their avowed purpose to effect by force, if necessary, a world revolution have aroused the instinct of self-preservation in democratic countries.

The mobilization of international goodwill, and a common understanding between nations as parts of a whole and not as self-sufficient entities, are the best counteractives to bolshevism. Denunciation of its palpable evils will not suffice unless we earnestly endeavor to rectify our own shortcomings, seek righteousness, practice justice, and have a deep regard for the affairs of the world as well as for our own.

MEDICAL SCIENCE HAS MADE MOST PROGRESS IN 100 YEARS

During the last century, science has made more progress than any other form of human endeavor. The most casual visitor at the Century of Progress exposition must have that forcibly brought to mind. Law, religion, economics, literature, art, drama and music, either have stood still or gone backwards in that period of time.

Dr. Clendening

Law? The attorney of today could walk into a courtroom of Patrick Henry's time and feel perfectly at home. A modern surgeon compelled to witness an operation of 1833 would shudder with agony at its cruelties and dangers. Music? A hundred years ago Beethoven had just died. Has modern music improved on him? Literature? "Pickwick Papers" appeared in 1836, and Poe published "Tamerlane and Other Poems" in 1827. Where are their equals today? Science alone actually has made progress.

In the great Hall of Science, certainly the most interesting of the exhibits at this wonderful fair, it is evident that medical science has kept pace with the most active of the progressing sciences. Indeed, in many respects it has been the leader.

A year ago I visited the great German museum at Munich, to me the most interesting museum in the world. Under its roof are housed exhibits showing the principles of all the sciences—both their fundamental and applied aspects. The principles of physics are illustrated by models, and then the practical application of physics to the telephone, the radio, the microscope, the telescope, etc., all shown in great detail. It is the most educational and stimulating museum in the world. I believe the late Julius Rosenwald intended to erect some such institute in Chicago. I wish there were a dozen American cities which could have similar ones.

The Hall of Science at the Century of Progress is comparable to the German museum, although by no means so complete. It could hardly expect to be because the German museum was years in building at a time of great national prosperity, and incalculable wealth was spent upon it. But the exhibit in Chicago conveys the same message, which is, I think, that the world can be saved by science if we are wise enough to utilize its data.

Because I think everyone who can possibly do so should visit this fair, and because I feel the scientific exhibit is so important, I spent some time in the medical section in making notes for this column. In the course of the present week I will develop the results of my observations.

Just Folks

THE STARLINGS

The martins all look down on them and treat them as their foes;
The wrens, I'm sure, consider them
full-cousins to the crows.
And every song-bird 'round the place
appears to look my way

As if he wonders just how long the starlings are to stay.
I'm told the starling family is a flock of ill-repute
That has a vicious history of stealing farmers' fruit.
They say the starlings all are tough and bully other birds
And in their conversation use a lot of ugly words.

I see them pecking at my lawn
with gleaming yellow bills
And wonder just what purpose here
the outlaw starling fills.
The blue birds live in dread of them and where the starlings stay
The lovely cardinals pack their goods and promptly go away.

The martins look at me as if I'd lost all sense of shame
To lease my grounds to such a crew, as if I were to blame
The wrens in anger chirp at me;
if matters dont improve
And I don't chase the starlings out they'll surely have to move.

'CORN' MEETING OPENS TUESDAY

Difficult Problem Of Control to Be Studied at Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 17—(AP)—Corn and hog producers will meet with economists and farm act administrators here tomorrow to undertake the most difficult problem yet encountered in applying the act to regulation of the nation's crops.

They have the warning of Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, that regulation of corn and hog production will be much more difficult than the problems encountered in setting up the wheat and cotton plans, the only two on which work has been done to date.

No two farm products are more closely linked since a high percentage of all corn raised in the middlewest is marketed "on the hoof," being used as the chief fattening feed in preparing hogs for market. For this reason corn and hogs have a definite relationship which tends to stabilize prices in relation to each other under normal conditions.

At the present time, with corn prices booming, the ratio between corn and hogs has been upset since livestock prices have not kept pace. Thus the farmer who raises hogs and is forced to buy feed finds corn at 80 cents per bushel too high in price to allow him a profit when it is fed to hogs still selling below $5 a hundred weight.

Some opposition is expected to the proposed processing tax on pork, proceeds of which would be used to finance an acreage reduction program for 1934. Instead, the suggestion will undoubtedly be offered that the processing tax be levied also on beef and mutton and that corn used in milling or manufacture also be taxed.

Seventytwo delegates from Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Missouri will attend the conference.

Wholesale Prices Are Pushed Higher

WASHINGTON, July 12— (AP) — The butcher, the baker and the grocer, to say nothing of the dry-goods store keeper, had to pay an average of 3½ per cent more for their stocks during June than in May.

The labor department said today that wholesale prices for the month showed an index figure of 65 when compared with 100 in 1926.

This was the fourth consecutive month that wholesale prices have shown an upward swing. In February the index was 59.8; March 60.2 and April 60.4. The June increase when compared with a year ago, however, was only 1¾ per cent.

Farm products went up almost 6 per cent, a sharp rise being shown in average prices of grains, cattle, sheep, cotton, lemons, oranges, fresh milk, tobacco, onions, white potatoes and wool.

There were decreases in the average prices of calves, live poultry, eggs, fresh apples, dried beans, hay and sweet potatoes.

Food price increases were reported for butter, cheese, flour, corn meal, rice, dried fruit, canned vegetables, cured beef, lamb ham, pork, oleomargerine, sugar and vegetable oils. In New York, fresh beef, mutton, veal and coffee averaged lower, but the food group as a whole increased 3 per cent in June as compared with May.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Betty Bear Is Astonished

Who for defense alone doth arm
His neighbors ne'er will seek to harm.

—Jimmy Skunk.

There is no more inoffensive person in all the great world than Jimmy Skunk, and none more independent. He is armed, powerfully armed, but it is for defense and he never uses it for offense. He never goes looking for trouble, but if trouble comes his way he isn't afraid.

"Don't bother me and I will not bother you," says Jimmy, and goes serenely about his business unafraid.

Betty Bear never will forget the first time she saw Jimmy Skunk and her astonishment at Mother Bear's behavior. It was just at dusk one pleasant evening. Mother Bear and Betty Bear were up in the old pasture after berries. They had come out there from the Green Forest late in the afternoon. They had had a feast of berries, and Mother Bear had started along a narrow path on her way back to the Green Forest, with Betty Bear at her heels, as usual, when Mother Bear stopped so suddenly at a turn in the path that Betty Bear bumped into her.

"Good evening," said Mother Bear in her deep, rumbly grumbly voice. "Would you just as soon step aside for us to pass?"

Betty Bear peeped around to see to whom she was speaking, for this was the first, the very first, time Betty Bear ever had heard her ask a favor of any one. In the path just ambling around the turn toward them came a small person in a black and white coat. He was much smaller than Betty Bear. A more harmless-looking small person Betty Bear never had seen. Yet Mother Bear, great big Mother Bear, from whom even Puma the Panther had run away, was actually making a request instead of giving an order. There was even something like respect in the tone of her voice.

"It is a nice evening," replied the very thick just here and it is not little stranger. "The oushes are convenient for me to step aside. It will be easier for you to do the side stepping." He came ambling along with all the confidence in the world. There seemed to be no doubt at all in his mind that Mother Bear and Betty would get out of his way.

Mother Bear growled and Betty Bear expected to see her crush this impudent little stranger with one blow from a great paw. Instead, Mother Bear backed a couple of steps, almost trading on Betty Bear's paws. She growled again and then Betty Bear saw the big plumy tail of the stranger begin to rise. It came up and up until it was over his back.

At this Mother Bear backed so hastily that she almost walked over Betty Bear. "Go back until we find a place where we can let this fellow pass," growled Mother Bear continuing to back. The little stranger continued to come on as if considered it the most natural thing in the world for Mother Bear to get out of his way.

A short distance back was an open space where they could step out of the path, and this they did. The little stranger ambled along the path and Mother Bear crowded back into the bushes to give him plenty of room to pass and some to spare. Of course Betty Bear did the same thing just because Mother Bear did it. But she couldn't understand it. No, sir, she couldn't. If Mother Bear wasnt afraid of this harmless-looking little stranger why should she treat him with so much respect?

"Thanks," said the little stranger. "I take it you have been after berries. I hope you left some. I would like a few myself."

"Plenty," growled Mother Bear.

The stranger stopped and looked at Betty Bear and somehow it made her feel uncomfortable. "I see you have your youngest with you," said he. "I hope you will teach her always to be polite to her betters. It pays. Yes, indeed, it pays." He moved on.

"Who was that?" asked Betty Bear as they once more went on their way.

"That," growled Mother Bear, "was Jimmy Skunk. Keep out of his way and out of the way of any of his family you may chance to meet."

The next story: "Betty Gets Some Advice."

"Good evening," said Mother Bear in her deep rumbly-grumbly voice.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

How to Play AND How to Win

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

SACRIFICE BIDDING.

Within a very short time teams-of-four representing the United States and Great Britain will meet in London and inaugurate the first international contest for the Charles M. Schwab cup, donated by the steel magnate as the permanent emblem of the bridge supremacy of the world. The members of the American team are Ely Culbertson, Theodore A. Lightner, Michael T. Gottlieb and myself. In preparation for the match I have recently been studying some of the hands played in the first international match ever played at the bridge table — the match played in London in September, 1930. At that time there was a distinct issue as to bidding methods, the British of that day making a boast that they did not use any "system" of bidding, but preferred "direct," "straightforward" methods. The result of the match was a victory for America and the conversion of the British bridge-playing public to the principles of correct bidding.

One of the hands which brought about England's conversion was the following:

East, dealer.
North and south vulnerable.

	♠ A 9 ♡ 10 8 2 ◇ K J 4 ♣ J 8 6 3 2
♠ K 7 4 3 2 ♡ Q ◇ A 7 3 2 ♣ Q 9 7		♠ Q J 10 8 6 5 ♡ 9 7 6 ◇ Q 6 5 ♣ 4
	♠ — ♡ A K J 5 4 3 ◇ 10 9 8 ♣ A K 10 5

In Room 1 the bidding was as follows, Mr. Culbertson sitting North and Mr. Lightner, South:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	1 N T (1)
Pass	3 ♡ (2)	Pass	4 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) This is a better bid than two notrump or two clubs.

(2) This bid is not a forcing bid, although in practice it would rarely be passed. Certainly north, with three trumps, would not think of failing to bid until game is reached.

The opening lead was a spade, and Mr. Lightner proceeded to make 11 tricks.

In the other room the bidding followed quite different lines. Here representatives of England sat north and south, while I held the east hand and my partner, Mr. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, the west hand. This was the bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	2 ♡ (1)	2 ♠ (2)	4 ♡
4 ♠ (3)	5 ♡	Pass	Pass
5 ♠ (4)	Double (5)	Pass	Pass
Pass

(1) The English were using what they called a "common-sense" system, whereby an opening bid of two in a suit was not forcing, but simply indicated a stronger hand than would be shown by a bid of one.

(2) My partner, not vulnerable, decided to take a chance and show where the hand might possibly be defended.

(3) While I had less than 1 honor-trick in my hand, the fact that we were not vulnerable and that our opponents were, made this appear to be a very good sacrifice bid.

(4) My hand offered no probability of defense against an opposing contract of five. My partner had bid spades; hence there was a strong probability that we might not be able to cash even a single trick in the heart suit. I knew that my partner's hand was not strong, as otherwise he would have made a takeout double rather than bid over the opening adverse bid.

(5) South had no other choice, although with a correct guess of every play, six could be made.

The result of the hand was that we went down 2 tricks doubled for a penalty of (at that time) 200 points, thereby saving 470 points under the scoring laws then in effect through accurate sacrifice bidding.

Today's Question.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 N T	Pass	3 ♠	4 ♣
4 ♠	Pass	6 ◇	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

North-south are vulnerable. East-west are not vulnerable.

You, south, the opening leader, hold:

♠ 6 5 ♡ 8 7 ◇ — ♣ A K Q 8 7 6 5 4 2

What do you lead?

Answer: The club queen. With your hand, a diamond ruff is your only hope of defeating the contract. With your own great length in clubs, it is quite possible that your partner is void; declarer, of course, should not have more than a singleton, at the most. Therefore if your partner is void, you naturally want him to ruff the first club trick, even though you can take the trick yourself, as this will be his first and, more than probably, his last opportunity to obtain the lead and give you the diamond ruff. If your partner has a singleton club, of course, the play of the queen will not lose anything, as you will still take the trick. However, if he is void he is practically forced to ruff, and if he has any intelligence he will return a diamond. If you make the more normal lead of the king or the ace, it is very unlikely that your partner, even though void of the suit, will realize the value of trumping.

SAY HUMAN BODY LEFT IN DITCH

Disappears Before Madison County Sheriff Reaches Place.

NORFOLK, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Mystery surrounding the apparent depositing by a man and woman of a human body in a ditch along a highway at the Walter Sohl farm notheast of Madison last week in all probability will never be solved.

Sheriff A. S. Henry of Madison county one night last week was summoned to the Sohl farm, where the farmer told the officer he had seen a large car stop and a man and a woman lift a large object from the machine and roll it in a ditch.

The pair, according to Sohl, returned to thei automobile and drove away at a high rate of speed. Sohl then made an investigation, he said, and much to his surprise he recognized the object as the body of a human being. He immediately notified Sheriff Henry. After the sheriff arrived at the farm he and Sohl made another investigation, but could then find no trace of the object.

No Trace Found.

The following morning, with Chief of Police William McVittie of Madison, Sheriff Henry made another investigation, but again found no trace of the mysterious bundle.

Sohl says he actually saw the couple lift the object from the automobile and saw what appeared to be a human body. Sheriff Henry stated here today he believed there was "something to" Sohl's story.

The farmer told the officers that several head of cattle in his feed yard stampeded at the time, adding that they behaved as though they had smelled blood.

THREE LINCOLN PEOPLE HURT IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH

An automobile-truck collision on the west end of the O street viaduct early Sunday morning resulted in minor injuries to three Lincoln occupants of the car, a convertible coupe.

Hubert Craig, 24, 1002 G street, who was driving the coupe, received numerous body and head bruises. Miss Ina Marie Smith, 21, 833 South Thirteenth street, one of the passengers, suffered a severe scalp wound and bruised legs. The other passenger, Harold Helzer, 20, 135 North Thirty-second street, lost considerable blood from a deep gash on the arm and cuts about the face.

The truck driver, William Jacobs of Friend, escaped unhurt.

Both machines were westbound at the time. Craig said he did not see the truck until right upon it. In swerving to avoid a crash, Craig swung the rear of his car into the rear end of the truck, police said. Craig claimed the truck had only one tail light.

The trio was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital by passing motorists. First aid was administered all except Craig and the three were dismissed to go home.

Destroy Your Fears Advises Rev. Smith

Declaring that man might never have had religion but for fear., Rev. Leslie R. Smith, pastor of Tabernacle Christian church, Sunday said that "fear should not now rule our lives. We should seek the forgiveness that alone can cleanse. A belief in the divine fatherhood of God is more important now than their belief only in His justice."

"No wonder early religion had fear as a foundation," Rev. Mr. Smith said. "Primitive man faced dangers on every side, and lived in constant fear of animals, and the forces and demonstrations of nature.

"Today we fear sleepless nights, circumstances around us. We fear the constancy of friendship and a self-inferiority. They have no place in our lives. They should be faced and uprooted. Fears like these take command and determine the outcome for many of us because the love of God has not entered our lives sufficiently."

HUNT RELATIVES OF TRAIN VICTIM

Believe Inmate of Poor Farm, Found Alongside Tracks, Ended Life.

Relatives of Andy Lindquest, 70-year-old inmate of the county poor farm, whose mangled body was found on the Union Pacific tracks six and one-half miles northwest of Lincoln Sunday morning, were being sought by county officials Monday.

Lindquest, who had lived at the county farm seventeen years, apparently took his own life, Deputy County Sheriff Charles Hughart said after an investigation. Hughart believes the man was struck by one of three trains which passed the place where the body was found between mignight and 7 o'clock Sunday morning, when the body was discovered by the engineer of a motor train.

Doubt that any relatives of Lindquest would be found was expressed by Hughart. When he entered the institution, Lindquest said he had a sister living in Clay county. Officials there have been asked to investigate. Lindquest formerly was a railroad laborer and was lame as a result of an accident received while working on the section.

He had been in poor health for months and was in a Lincoln hospital for a time this spring. Another inmate at the farm said that Lindquest told him Saturday night he was going to take a walk, but Superintendent W. W. Schofield was unaware that the man was missing during the night.

The body is at Castle, Roper and Matthews'.

RODNEY KEEN TO GET AT JOHNNY

Bliss Anxious to Have It Out With Goodman In National Amateur.

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Riding along on the impetus of a wave of par golf, Rodney Bliss, jr., of Omaha retained his state golf championship in last week's tourney in an easy fashion.

Bliss won the title Saturday by defeating Matt Zadalis of Omaha, seven and five, in the last match of the tourney. He was never in danger and took the match just as he pleased.

Retention of the title was a suitable reward for the steady golf that Bliss played throughout the meet. With the title again in his possession, Bliss turned his eyes toward the western amateur tourney, soon to be played at Memphis, Tenn.

He hopes to compete in this tourney and to play again this year in the national amateur qualifying round. Last year, Rodney qualified for the national amateur, but was forced to drop out of the meet, due to the press of school work.

Stands Even With Goodman.

If successful in qualifying this year he plans to play in the tourney, thus giving Omaha two chances of garnering top honors in the meet. Johnny Goodman, the open champion, will of course be present and there will always be the chance that Bliss and Goodman might meet in the amateur in their rubber match.

Goodman defeated Bliss two years ago, one up in the state meet, but dropped his title to Rodney the next year when Bliss beat him, two and one, in a first round match then sailed on to win the championship.

Another Roosevelt Job

Australia's Plan

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

General Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania railroad, says the state of New Jersey can have the Raritan canal, leased to the railroad for 999 years. It costs more to keep the canal up than it is worth.

This gives President Roosevelt an opportunity to carry through a work that would be remembered, to his honor.

A canal across New Jersey, using the Raritan right-of-way, would cut the water route between New York and Philadelphia from 275 to 90 miles; eliminating dangers of coastwise shipping along the New Jersey seaboard.

And most important, that canal across New Jersey would complete the inland waterway from New England to Florida, vitally important to this country's safety. Digging that canal would put idle men and government money to work, and build a lasting monument to F. D. Roosevelt.

Russia has just finished one of the longest canals in the world, and after 19 months of intensive work, her ports on the Arctic sea are directly connected with the warm water ports of Europe.

Russia no longer need send shipping around the dangerous coasts of Norway and Sweden to reach the south.

Charmion von Wiegand, describing the canal digging, tells how "far on the frozen tundra of the Arctic, skeletons of ancient Laplander chieftains, over 2,000 years old, have been unearthed and a new and thriving world is being built by Soviet pioneers."

If Russia can do that work "on the Arctic's frozen tundra," Uncle Sam should be able to do it in comfortable New Jersey.

Australia, after keeping out all but white population, and failing to get enough whites to make the country safe, adopts this plan.

She will let British capitalists lease for 100 years some 500,000 square miles in the wilds of northern Australia.

Tens of thousands of aboriginess will not like it, but they will be protected. Gigantic Australia, with only 4,120,000 population, has for neighbor, just beyond the horizon, the islands of Japan, with their 60,000,000, and earth's most rapidly growing population. The increase was more than 1,000,000 last year.

Enterprising Americans may be interested to know that there are diamonds in Australia, of quality better than the African diamonds, equal in color, brilliancy and hardness to the diamonds of Brazil. It might be worth while to go and look for them, perhaps find the bed from which those discovered have been dislodged. Much of Australia has never been explored.

MANAGER OMAHA PARK IS ROBBED

Slugged By Bandits and Locked In Office Vault.

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Police today pursued the cold trail of two holdupmen who early today robbed Louis Slusky, manager of Krug park here, and took approximately $3,500 in cash. Slusky told detectives that $2,200 of the money was receipts of the walkathon now being conducted at Lincoln. The remainder was receipts of the amusement park here for Saturday and Sunday.

The pair forced Slushy into the office vault at the park and after getting the money slugged him on the head and locked him in. He was released several minutes later when his brother, Abe, and a cousin, Albert Becker, returned to the office to take Slusky home.

Although Abe did not know the combination of the vault, Louis shouted it to him and was released just as detectives, summoned by the brother, appeared on the scene.

Slusky furnished police with a partial description of the robber pair, but was unable this morning to identify their photos in the police picture gallery.

REPORT $10,000 PAID TO LUER'S CAPTORS DENIED

Illinois Banker Released, But Whether Ransom Paid Is Uncertain.

ALTON, Ill., July 17—(AP)—The release by a kidnap gang of August Luer, aged and wealthy banker, today had stilled deep anxiety for his safety, but created a controversy over how much, if any, ransom was paid.

Freed early Sunday on a highway near Collinsville, Ill., the 77-year-old and almost invalid man was returned to his home several hours later by department of justice agents.

The officers were called to a resort conducted by Mrs. Grace Miller where Luer appeared and announced his identity. He said he walked a half mile from the place where he was ejected from a motor car.

He related a story of physical and mental suffering while detained for more than five days in a chilly, musty and tiny sub-basement.

Son Denies Paid Ransom.

Carl Luer, his son, asserted "we didn't pay a cent of ransom." Many well informed persons believe, however, that a ransom of $10,000 changed hands. The initial demand, received in a note Thursday, was reported to have been for $100,000.

The elderly man, seized last Monday evening in his own home here by two men and a woman, suffers from frequent heart attacks. Fear that he might die while in custody was believed in some quarters to have been the motivating influence in the release.

"We'd never have touched you, Pop, if we'd known you were so weak and sick.' Luer said he was told by one of the abductors.

After a bath, physical examination, and nap, Luer late yesterday posed with his wife for photographers. He joked with the cameramen, but police would not permit him to make a further statement.

The examination revealed that Luer was in remarkably good health, considering the poor condition of his heart and the ordeal he suffered.

Did Not See Captors.

He said he never saw the faces of his captors. The trio which seized him in his home wore masks and immediately taped his eyes and did not remove the bandages during his captivity, he explained.

The banker explained he was not treated unkindly by the gang, but was given only ham sandwiches, oranges, cantaloupe and hard boiled eggs to eat, and slept for two nights on a concrete floor before being furnished a motor car seat to use as a bed.

The Burlington reported rains along its Burwell and Sargent lines, ranging from showers to one inch. Light rains fell from Max to Benkelman. Showers were recorded at O'Neill, Fremont, Yutan and from Ravenna to Cairo.

WILL UNIONIZE OMAHA CRAFTS

All Workmen Not Yet Organized To Be Invited to Join.

OMAHA, July 17 — (AP) — A mass meeting at the Omaha labor temple tonight, to which all unorganized workers in local factories, mills and the building industry are invited, was called today as part of Omaha labor's campaign to take full advantage of the federal industrial recovery act. Leaders of trade unions have been invited to speak.

An executive committee to direct organization work was appointed yesterday at a meeting to which 32 union groups sent delegates. The organizers today emphasized that if workers are to be represented at the national code conferences they must organize locally and affiliate with national labor groups.

Tonight's meeting was announced by W. C. Godwin, Nebraska organizer for the American Federation of Labor. He said that he will confer with men in baking plants today who claimed they had been threatened by their superiors for union activity. He said he was determined to request federal prosecution if the charges are substantiated.

60,000 Lutherans Attend Services At Soldier Field

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—Sessions of the 41st international convention of the Walther league got underway today following a Sunday celebration at which 60,000 Lutherans gathered at Soldier field to observe the 450th anniversary of the birthday of Martin Luther in song and spoken word.

At the services hymns were sung by a massed chorus of 3,000 Lutheran children and 5,000 choristers representing 168 Lutheran churches. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Erwin Umbach, executive secretary of the Walther league, and Rv. J. W. Behnken, Houston, Tex.

Rev. Mr. Umbach pleaded for an inclusion of God in the plans and remedies suggested for the "unparallelled situation in which the world finds itself today."

"Man's plans," he said, "are boastful, aggressive, revolutionary, but with God left out."

There cannot be a church without a creed, Rev. Mr. Behnken said. He declined it as a platform and said that it must contain positive and determined doctrines. Without it he said a church would have nothing upon which to stand before the tribunal of public opinion.

"A spineless church," he said, "is most repulsive and abominable."

Speakers listed for today's session included Governor Henry Horner of Illinois, and Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, in addresses of welcome followed by the response by H. L. Klein, Springfield, Ill.

UNION PRINTERS WILL NOT ACCEPT CODE AS DRAFTED

CLEVELAND, July 17—(AP)—Asserting the meeting at Chicago at which a code for the printing industry was drafted was "packed" with non-union employers, Charles P. Howard of Indianapolis today prepared to lead a delegation of the International Typographical union to Washington "to tell the administration that such a code does not comply with the national recovery act." Howard is president of the printers' union.

Organized labor, he asserted, was given no voice in the Chicago meeting to which he charged leaders of a group of non-union employers paid the expenses of a number of non-union shop owners.

"The unions are not going to accept such a code as was drafted in Chicago," he said.

He spoke at Cleveland yesterday and urged non-union printers to authorize the unions to represent them in negotiating for a code for printers.

Beginning of Branch Bank System Is Found In Glass-Steagall Law

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of stories by staff writers of the Associated Press explaining new laws.

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON.

WASHINGTON, July 17— (AP) — American banking rounds another historic turn with enactm nt of the branch banking section of the Glass-Steagall law.

Under it, national banks located in states which let their state banks have branches now can establish state-wide branch banking systems.

Argued for months in congress, the issue involved has been a subject of dispute since early days of the republic. It reaches to whether a country-wide chain system has more to offer in the public and national good than banking only by independent units.

May Change System.

Some banking authorities believe this new law is the first step toward a national system such as in Canada and England, where there are a few big chains instead of innumerable dividual banks. Indeed, there is talk already of the administration planning even more absolute legislation toward that end for the congress to meet in January.

Opponents of branch banking have contended it would centralize the nation's banking power and drive individual small bankers out of business. Friends of the proposal argue that it would strengthen the banking system to have small rural banks tied up to big city institutions, benefiting fro mtheir broader experience, greater resources and wider interests.

Limited Within State.

Branch banking beyond state lines is not permitted, however, in the Glass-Steagall law. A bank in San Francisco could establish branches in Los Angeles, Sacramento or San Diego but not in Portland, Ore., or Denver, Colo.

National banks will be permitted to have branches in about a dozen states. Which these will be is a matter of interpreting the law and must be finally determined by the comptroller of the currency. It is now believed, however, that Arizona, California, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, Oregon and Washington will be included. Other states may change their laws later to qualify.

Nebraska laws do not permit branch banking so that this provision of the Glass-Steagall law will not apply in this state.

Track Prophets Foresee Mile Record of 4:06

Lovelock's Triumph of Last Week Points to New World Mark

BY ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, July 17—America, once the home of the world's greatest middle distance foot-racers, hailed today a new king of mile runners—slim, curly-haired, 23-year-old, John E. (Jack) Lovelock from far-off Dunedin, New Zealand, and Oxford university of England. Running for the Oxford-Cambridge team in a meet Saturday against the combined Cornell-Princeton forces, Lovelock flashed his 133 pounds of racing energy past a quartet of amazed timers in 4 minutes, 7.6 seconds, beating Princeton's famous Bill Bonthron by seven yards and shattering the world record to fragments.

Bonthron ran the distance faster than any American before him, being clocked in 4.08.7, but the 20-year-old Detroit boy was unable to match Lovelock's marvelous finishing sprint after the two had raced stride for stride most of the way.

Thus, under circumstances as remarkable as any in foot-racing annals, the mile record passed farther than ever from American hands, leaving the track world somewhat groggy from this fresh attack on time and the experts now confident that Lovelock, if not Bonthron, eventually will win the mile in 4 06 or even better. The young New Zealander proved unquestionably that the limit has not been reached; he may get a chance to demonstrate it by racing that other American college ace, Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, this summer in Europe.

Cuningham, who set an unofficial American record of 4.09.8 at Chicago in June, is now abroad with an all star track and field squad, touring the principal European capitals

Bonthron Still Factor.

Bonthron experienced the ill-luck, on his greatest day, to be forced to trail the greatest mile performance of all time, but the sturdy, black-haired American boy will be heard from again. In fact, he closed out the day with a rare exhibition of speed and stamina by winning the half-mile in 1:53, clinching the meet for the Cornell-Princeton team. He has another year of college competition before him. He has developed amazingly within the past season—like Lovelock, the only runner to beat him this year, and clearly possesses the stuff to continue smashing records.

For 10 years now, the mile record has eluded American grasp. The great Paavo Nurmi took the mark to Europe in 1923 when he ran the distance at Stockholm in 9·10 2-5. Jules Ladoumeque of France, now a professional, lowered the record to 4:09 1-5 at Paris in 1931 and now Lovelock has smashed it again.

New Zealander Serves Notice.

The New Zealand youth served notice to the record books at London a year ago, when he raced the three-quarters of a mile in 3:02 1-5, wiping out the ancient world record of 3:02 4-5, made in 1895 by Tommy Conneff, the Irish-American star. His best previous mile time was 4:12, made in England.

The following table shows the progress downward of the mile record:

1882—4:21 2-5, W. G George England.
1895—4 15 3-5, Tommy Coneff, U S. A.
1911—4.15 2-5, John Paul Jones, U. S A
1913—4:14 2-5, John Paul Jones, U.S.A.
1915—4 12 3-5, Norman S. Taber, U. S A.
1923—4.16 3-5, Paavo Nurmi, Finland.
1923—4:09 1-5, Jules Ladoumegue, France.
1933—4 07 3-5, Jack Lovelock, New Zealand.

Lovelock is slated for two competitive appearances in Canada this week and both probably will be over the mile route. The Oxford-Cambridge Squad meets the Hamilton Olympic club at Hamilton Wednesday and the Montreal A. A. A. at Montreal Thursday

CLINICAL SURVEY REVEALS STARTLING FACTS..!

RESEARCH undertaken by the Gillette Skin Clinic and a wide-spread survey among doctors and dermatologists conclusively proves that faulty shaving can cause or aggravate many skin troubles. The prevalence of disorders traced to shaving prompted the foundation of the Skin Clinic, headed by an eminent dermatologist.

This clinic, through its head, emphasizes the importance of shaving with a sharp blade. A sharp blade, reports the clinic, is positively non-irritating to normal skin. For this reason, Gillette uses particular care in making the "BLUE BLADE". By actual test, in competition with several other "makes" of blades, the "BLUE BLADE" proved from 23% to 42% sharper.

If you find shaving a task—if your skin is irritated or uncomfortable—we urge you to try "BLUE BLADES". Gillette Safety Razor Company, Boston, Mass.

Prentice, in charge of the American squad, selected Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, George Lott and John Van Ryn yesterday to face England, surprise conqueror of Australia last week, in the interzone series starting in Roland Garros stadium Friday. Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Vines' doubles partner, was picked as alternate.

Although the draw will not be made until later in the week, it was expected Vines and Allison would be given the two singles berths, with Lott and Van Ryn handling the doubles.

England probably will use Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin in singles and Perry and George Patrick Hughes in doubles.

After Friday's opening singles matches, the doubles will be played Saturday and the final two singles matches Sunday. The winner will qualify to meet France in the challenge round here July 28-29-30.

CANARY PITCHER PUZZLES LINKS

Hurler For Sioux Falls Has "Indian Sign" On Local Batsmen.

The old Indian sign was functioning full time Sunday night at Landis Field as Conaway, Sioux Falls right-handed twirler, piled up his sixth win of the season over Lincoln by a 6-3 count. Conaway has won only one game from another team, but thus far has been poison to the Links.

A single, a fielder's choice and Gutteridge's bad peg handed Sioux Falls a run in the opening frame, but Lincoln went in front in the fourth when Owens singled and Callahan did likewise, both coming over on Phillips' mighty blast for three hassocks in to center field. A fielder's choice, a single and Brown's triple, however produced two runs and sent the Canaries in front in the sixth.

Canaries Win in Seventh.

Lincoln's last tally came in the same frame, Gutteridge beating out a blow to Crouch, stealing second and coming over on Hruska's double. An error by Owens, Bosse's single, Brown's three-bagger and Calhoun's lofty fly to Roy Brann, however, handed the guests three runs and the ball game in the seventh.

Al "Carnera" Harnisko chucked good ball with the exception of momentary streaks of wildness. Neely, ex-Omahan, who followed Harnisko on the mound, functioned well after the fatal seventh, but was removed for a pinch-hitter and Anderson finished the game. Neely was charged with the loss.

The same two teams are slated to mix it tonight in the second game of the series. "Slug" Underwood probably will be on the mound for Lincoln Schroeder, Harrison or David likely will be on the peak for Sioux Falls. Score:

Haegen Forges Ahead In Final Tennis Duel and Wins City Title

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The name of Wilbur Haegen, ranking player on the University of Nebraska squad, has been added to the roster of Lincoln city tennis champions. Haegen, a hustling youngster who has plenty of sting to his service and who can bounce around the court for seemingly impossible "gets," earned the 1933 singles crown Sunday by defeating George Dobson in a four-set match. Haegen previously disposed of Paul Mahood, defending champion, in the semi-finals.

Crowd Surrounds Court.

Hagen defeated Dobson, 6-8, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4, and the spirited battle was well worth the time and attention of the large gallery that swarmed around the courts and stayed until the final point had been decided.

The brilliantly played first set was one of the most spectacular bits of championship play in city tournament history It went to Dobson, but the remainder of the match was all Haegen, the champion evening the match by taking the next set without difficulty and twice rallying to win the third set and go to the rest period one up. The fourth set saw Haegen get away to a flying start which enabled him to stagger in at the finish after Dobson had picked up three straight game and was only a few points shy of deucing the set.

Stubborn Resistance.

Some idea of the stubborn resistance offered by Dobson may be gained by the number of set points required to decide the issue. In the second set, Haegen won on the third set point and in the third set Haegen required two setpoints. On the final set, the champion had matchpoint seven times before he finally connected with a cannon-ball service that caromed off Dobson's racquet and bounded out of court.

The first set was a thrilling exhibition, with sparkling rallies at the net, sizzling passing shots and brilliant exchanges of back court drives which brought rounds of applause from the spectators. The third game went 22 points before Haegen finally pulled it out of the fire The ninth game was deuced eight times and required 24 points before Dobson at last won it.

First Set to Dobson.

Dobson came from behind in magnificent style to win the first set at 8-6. Each had trouble holding service, but Haegen got away in front, 3-1. Dobson then started his passing shots and evened the count to three-all. They traded services and Dobson went in front 5-4. Haegen deuced the set twice, but it was a final gesture, for Dobson broke through Haegen's service after a 10-point game and won his own to take the set a 8-6.

The strain apparently sapped Dobson's rallying power, for he was easy prey to Haegen's net game in the next set which the champion won with the loss of only the third game. In fact, the last game of the set was the only one which went to deuce.

Dobson had a golden opportunity to regain command of the match in the third set. Haegen led off by sweeping through the first two games with the loss of but two points. Dobson matched this feat and was ahead at 4-3 when he scored four placements to win his own service with the loss of a lone point.

Hagen Squares the Set.

Dobson also led at 5-4 in the game-count, but Wilbur started driving his opponent back with deep shots mixed, with high lofting lobbs, and finally squared the set at 5-5. Haegen then suddenly raced to the net to break through Dobson's service and won his own with a finishing serve which Dobson was unable to return.

The fourth set found Haegen ahead all the time. He took the first three games and soon was in front at 5-1. George, however, was not prepared to concede the match. He rallied behind two matchpoints in spectacular fashion and finally won the seventh game with a service ace which Haegen was unable to reach with his racquet. Twice again he came from behind and the gallery was tense as he crowded to within a game of deucing the set.

In the final game, Haegen roamed to the net and put an angle shot home. Dobson drove deep to force Haegen into an error to bring the score to 15-all. The champion won a brisk rally from deep court by virtue of some well-placed lobbs and went down on his knees for a chop to cut the sidelines to set the pace 40-15 Dobson brought the count to 40-30 and then faded out of the picture when Haegen slammed over a hot service which drove home the winning point. THOSE TWO LONG GAMES.

The Haegen-Dobson championship match at the Lincoln Tennis club produced two long games during the first set. In each of these games the loser trailed after apparently having a commanding lead.

In the fourth game of the fourth set, Dobson was serving and had a 40-15 lead before Haegen brought the score to deuce George had five advantage points before Wilbur won the game, 12-10 In the ninth game of the set, Haegen was serving and he combined two winning shots with an ace to lead 40-love. Dobson then reeled off four successive points and finally won the game at 13-11.

Each finalist blew easy kills in the ninth game. With the score his advantage, Haegen took a short lobb near the net and knocked it down to the bottom of the net. A minute later Dobson was in a similar position and muffed an apparently easy kill.

Senators Falter In Race for A. L. Honors; Leaders Now In Tie

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—The slump which strikes nearly every good ball club at least once a season has hit the Washington Senators just when they seemed to have first place in the American league packed away in moth balls. A week ago, Washington, with 23 victories in 26 games, had pulled away to a 4½ game lead over the New York Yankees. Then, as the Yanks started a winning streak, the Senators went wrong and today the clubs again were tied for the lead. The Yankees were idle Sunday their scheduled game with the Chicago White Sox being rained out.

Too Much Hadley.

The Senators took a 7 to 0 whitewashing from the St. Louis Browns yesterday, their fifth defeat in eight games. Irving "Bump" Hadley gave the Senators only four hits, three of them by Heinie Manush, while Earl Whitehill went up in the air in the ninth and Bill McAfee also was hit hard to give the last place club six runs.

The only other American league game saw the Cleveland Indians defeat the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1, in 14 innings when Frank Pytlak and Willie Kamm nicked Bob Weiland for singles and the former scored after Bill Knickerbocker's fly. Willis Hudlin held the Sox to five hits, only one of which came in the first nine innings.

Giants Divide With Reds.

The New York Giants, National league leaders, continued their career as "hitless wonders" by dividing a pair of 1-0 decisions with the last place Cincinnati Reds, although they got only 15 hits in 24 innings. The Reds won the opener, a 15-inning duel between Red Lucas and Bud Parmelee when Rollie Hemsley singled George Grantham home. Manager Bill Terry's double and Johnny Vergez' single produced the Giant tally off Paul Derringer in the fourth inning of the nightcap.

Two of the Giants' principal rivals, the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, also split doubleheaders, while Pittsburgh was kept idle by rain at Brooklyn.

The second place Cubs dropped the opener to Boston, 2-1, when Wally Berger clouted his seventeenth homer of the year in the eighth inning to break up a mound duel between Ed Brandt and Pat Malone. Guy Bush pitched seven-hit ball and Woody English and Riggs Stephenson contributed fancy slugging to give Chicago the second game, 3-1.

Bill Hallahan's flinging gave the Cards a 4-2 decision over the Phillies in the first game, but the Phils piled up eight runs in three frames to win the second, 8-2, behind Snipe Hansen's six-hit hurling.

Many Issues On N.Y. Stock Exchange Score Gains Of 1 To Around 8 Points In Buying Rush

Buoyant Advance In Share Prices

Close Is Strong at Near Best Levels of Past Two Years.

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Stock joined grains in another buoyant advance today with many issues scoring gains of 1 to around 8 points in the buying rush. Late profit-taking shaded some of the more spectacular advances, but the close was strong, near the highest levels of the past two years or more. Transwers approximated 6,500,000 shares.

The alcohols repeated their soaring performance of the past week and were followed by some of the rubbers, aircraft and other specialties. While most groups participated in the renewal of the upswing, selectivity was more noticeable than in past weeks. Wheat ran up about 5 cents a bushel at one time, but dropped back under realizing. Corn, oats and rye were up about cents a bushel while barley spurted some 11 cents. Cotton held gains of about $1 a bale and rubber futures were strong. Bonds were firm.

"Repeal" issues up 2 to around 8 included National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, Commercial Solvents, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Standard Brands and Owens-Illinois. Johns-Manville, Du Pont, International Business Machines, U. S. Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Firestone, Goodyear, American Smelting, United Aircraft, U. S. Steel and American Telephone advanced 1 to 7. Aside from Followers of the sugar stocks, most of which have risen substantially in the past week or so, were cheered by the announcement from Washington of a tentative agreement reached at a meeting of leading refiners to curtail imports into Continental United States of he refined product from Cuba and he Philippines. The sugar curtailment agreement, it was said, will be submitted soon to the agricultural adjustment administration to serve as a basis of a formal hearing under he farm act.

The boom in the cotton trade, according to the New York cotton exchange service, has caused mills in this country to step up their consumption during the first half of uly, with the rate of activiy exceeding hat of the record breaking pace in June. The first two weeks of July, it was said, domestic mills ran at about 128 per cent of the average rate in 1922-1927, as against 126 in June and 54 in July of last year.

The week-end news served to emphasize the determination of the administration to expedite as much as possible the filing of trade codes. Wall street was interested particularly in the steel code because of he dominant position of this industry.

The steel plants last week operated at 57 per cent of capacity, an increase of 2 points, according to the trade review "steel." The majority of mills, it was stated, have sufficient backlog to carry them at their present rate to the middle of Augus, and in a few instances all through next month.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly in early dealings. Sterling opened at $4.77⅞, a decline of ⅝ of a cent while French, francs stood at 5.60½ cents, a decrease of ¾ of a point.

All Grains Are Carried Higher

Wheat Closes 3⅛ to 3⅞ Up; Corn 1⅛ to 2⅝ Advance.

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—Broad public speculative buying that took in all grains carried every cereal nearly straight upward today.

Wheat gained a maximum of 5⅛ cents and reached $1.27¼ a bushel, compared with about 43 cents a bushel at around the beginning of 1933. Destruction of Canadian wheat crops as result of many adverse causes was reported as progressing today, and there were also reports that European crops were going backward on account of untimely rains. The 1933 wheat production of 12 countries was estimated as 19.1 per cent below 1932.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3⅛@3⅞ cents above Saturday's finish, July $1.16, Sep. $1.18¾@1.18⅞, corn 1⅛@2⅝c up, July, 66⅛c, Sep. 71@71⅛c, oats ½@1½c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20 cents.

Wheat and corn promptly reached new high price records at the outset today, but advances were restrained as compared with recent wild upturns. Crop losses continued in Canada, and no rains of importance were shown, but trade leaders urged that values had scored tremendous upturns, and that utmost conservatism was desirable. Opening ¾ to 1 cent higher, wheat afterward held near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to 1 cent up, and subsequently rose all around.

Brisk trading and frequent fluctuations followed the opening of wheat dealings, but with prices gradually mounting higher after setbacks. Before half an hour had elapsed, wheat touched a long awaited goal, $1.25 a bushel. The fact received hardly any more notice however, either from brokers or spectators, than a quick arching of eyebrows, $1.25 being treated as just another set of figures in the upward trend of quotations.

The chief characteristic of the wheat market tday was its appearance of irresistible strength rather than any show of unusual tumult. General public speculative buying persisted on a broad scale, and despite a continuous big aggregate of profit taking sales the market moved powerfully upward. Little attention was given the fact that the Liverpool wheat trade had virtually disregarded advances in price on this side of the Atlantic. The main interest of traders here focused almost exclusively on news that weather in the spring wheat belt, both north and south of the Canadian border, remained unfavorable with the crop outlook sensationally adverse.

At the $1.25, the wheat market was about 3 cents above Saturday's finish. Simultaneously, rye and other cereals were all following the climb of the wheat market, with rye reaching fresh top records. Wheat soon strongly passed above $1.25, and corn crossed well beyond 80 cents.

About midsession, wheat was approaching $1.26, nearly four cents up since Saturday. Meanwhile, corn was more than two cents up. Corn traders had reports of katydids singing in the corn fields, presaging frost coming in six weeks and indicating likelihood of severe crop losses. The adage was recalled: "When the katydid sings, the frost sting."

Provisions went upward with hog values and grain.

After midsession, wheat was 3⅝-4⅜ cents over Saturday's finish, with May wheat at $1.26¼ and corn was up to 1 to ⅝ cents.

Barley prices advanced faster than wheat. When wheat jumped above $1.27, barley showed a gain of 12 cents a bushel today to 83¾ for December contracts.

The corn belt today reported practically no moisture relief but somewhat lower temperatures. Scattered showers were predicted with temperatures continuing moderately cool. Large receipts of corn here today estimated at almost 1,000 cars, were reflected by an easier market in cash corn with the basis off ½ to ¾ of a cent.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Bonds of industrial companies today made a bid for trading attention which had recently centered in the railroad list.

A continued flow of favorable news respecting basic industries brought a fair amount of buying into obligations of some of the steel, copper, oil and miscellaneous industrial units.

Improvement ranging from fractions to a point was registered in issues like American Smelting & Refining 5s, Gulf States Steel 5½s, Lautaro Nitrate 6s, Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron 6s, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s.

Demand for rail loans was rather selective although the group was characterized by general firmness. Some of the secondary issues climbed a point or so, and sound investment descriptions like Santa Fe also scored moderate gains. Chicago & North Western 4¾s and some other recent favorites of the semi-speculative class were a bit heavy.

The foreign department had a few strong spots, notably Japan 5½s, Colombia 6s, Poland 7s and Brazil 6½s. German bonds were somewhat heavy. Most other Europeans were firm.

The federal list continued its colorless performance with trading in negligible volume. Prices were only narrowly changed.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Stocks on the curb moved buoyantly today, stimulated by the aggressive "alcohol bloc" which spurted some 4 or 5 points. Other gains were more moderate with the exception of General Tire & Rubber which soared around 15 points, reflecting the recent popularity of this group on the big board.

The heavy demand for the so-called wet stocks was indicated in the large turnover of Distillers Corporation & Seagrams which opened on an exchange of 11,900 shares for an advance of approximately 5 points. Hiram Walker and Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" and "B" rose 4 to 5 points, also in brisk trading. Schenley Distillers, a new comer, gained about 3.

Some of the specialties were also in demand but utilities advanced more moderately. Claude Neon of Delaware improved its quotation by some 4 points, and Great Atlantic & Pacific was up about 2.

Among the other issues which advanced from 1 to around 3 were Aluminum Company of America, Ford Motor of Canada "A" and "B," Humble Oil, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Pan American Airways, and Tubize Chatillion Corp.

United Molasses, Ltd., a recent favorite, and Pepperell lost around a point.

MAKES UP WITH FILM STAR WIFE

Max Baer Tries Again to Qualify as Actress' Steady Hubby.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17 — (INS)—Max Baer, the heavyweight "Adonis" of California, and his pretty wife, Dorothy Dunbar Wells, former stage and screen actress, walked arm-in-arm to the breakfast room of a fashionable hotel here early this morning, reconciled after several months' estarangement.

A divorce suit, pending in Sacramento courts will be dropped immediately, they agreed.

"Are we happy?" answered Mrs. Baer to a reporter's question. "Well, you guess," she said, as she affectionately kissed her smiling husband.

That One More Try.

"We both felt that we ought to make another try of it," Baer said, "so I met Dorothy yesterday as soon as I got back from New York.

"Dorothy and I are leaving for Oakland today to see the folks and then we will continue on to Hollywood, where I have an engagement with the films.

"I'm going to try and persuade Dorothy to make a picture with me, but right now her mind is on golf and she is determined to win a flock of tournaments. You know, Dorothy plays a better game than I do and I'm proud of her. She's hitting the low eighties now."

Asked about June Knight, the screen actress to whom he was reported engaged, Max answered: "We're good pals, but that's all."

Promoter Daro Files Bid.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17 — (INS)—Max Baer's manager, Ancil Hoffman, announced today that his sensational California heavyweight has been guaranteed $50,000 for a return match with Max Schmeling in Los Angeles during September or February.

"It was the latest offer," said Hoffman, "and came from Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter.

"Max will go on another exhibition tour unless a fight is scheduled," declared Hoffman. "We have four months' exhibitions lined up if we want them."

Baer seemed unconcerned about the setup for the future and played a round of golf yesterday while his manager did the announcing.

Plans Whirl at Movies.

The big heavyweight, who has been resting at Hoffman's ranch in northern California, was enthusiastic, however, about his next venture in the movies.

"I guess that will be my next job," he grinned, "now that Primo Carnera has made it known he won't meet me this year."

Hoffman echoed his fighter in respect to Carnera.

"Eventually they'll come around to it," he said. "The idea of fighting the Italian for nothing is ridiculous. We wouldn't consider it. Carnera needs Baer more than Baer needs Carnera."

Maxey Says Nay To Fight With Walker

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Maxey Rosenbloom might have defended his light-heavyweight championship against Mickey Walker here this week, but the Harlem clown elected to continue his barnstorming in the far west instead.

He'll fight Fred Lenhart in a 10-round overweight match at Tacoma, Wash., Thursday the same night he tentatively was booked to meet Walker in a title bout in Madison Square Garden.

Maxey declined to go through with the Walker match because he still is somewhat annoyed over a contract he alleges the Garden broke with him. The contract, he says, called for his appearance in a preliminary to the Sharkey-Carnera heavyweight title fight.

KIDNAPERS STILL HOLD O'CONNELL

New Yorker Is Expected To Be Released Near Manhattan.

(Copyright, 1933, by Associated Press.)

ALBANY, N. Y., July 17—(AP)—A strong feeling prevailed here today that the kidnapers of John J. O'Donnell, Jr., would release him in New York city or in a suburb of the metropolitan district.

This belief was given impetus when it was learned that of the four letters received by the 24-year-old national guard lieutenant's uncles, Ed and Dan O'Connell, one of the first three notes was mailed from Yonkers and the fourth bore a White Plains postmark. The other two were mailed in this city.

The fact that two of the letters were mailed from close to Manhattan and that the last list of intermediaries was published last Friday in New Yok City newspapers, revived the theory that the kidnapers hailed from New York City.

Held Captive Ten Days.

With the passing yesterday of the tenth day since O'Connell was seized from an automobile in front of his Putnam street home, the O'Connells today again expected further instructions from the young man's captors, either by mail or or telephone.

District Attorney John T. Delany's office hummed with activity all night, detectives and investigators dropping in and departing at intervals of only a few minutes. However, the only information obtainable at the courthouse was that there were "no developments."

RATES CARNERA AS SURE WINNER

Big Jess Willard Frowns On Max Baer's Chances Against Primo.

BY WALLACE X. RAWLES.

LOS ANGELES, July 17—(INS)—Primo Carnera may be the world's heavyweight champion a long time if he can get by Max Baer.

"Baer is a terrific puncher, a slam-banger, but he is over-estimated. I'm afraid a little too much is expected of him. He and Carnera are pretty young. I think Carnera will whip Baer."

These were the opinions today of Jss Willard, who until Carnera knocked out Jack Sharkey was the largest heavyweight champion in the history of the ring.

Genial Jess, now living quietly on a modest estate in the Verduca Hills, recalled that he weighed about 236 pounds when he fought Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey, compared with Carnera's 260 against Sharkey.

"Carnera's size will not militate against him," Willard said. "His trouble will be to find opponents who want to look up at a man mountain.

Carnera Hard to Stop.

"The public, furthermore, won't pay to see a one-man fight. They want to see a two-man fight. If Carnera gets going, he's going to be a hard man to stop for some time.

"He can't take off extra weight by training or the stiffest of road work. The only way to take off weight is to diet."

Willard knows, as he also weighed as much as 265 pounds when he was champion. Today he weighs 285. He works out daily, "just to stay in shape," at the Hollywood Y. M. C. A.

It is easy to see that he does not think a whole lot of the present crop of heavyweight fighters.

"But I hope I never get too old to see that the fighting game, as well as everything is, is progressing," he admitted.

STANFORD U. SET PLAY ST. MARY'S

Cardinals Abandon Their Gridiron Boycott of Madigan's Men.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17—(INS)—Pacific coast football circles buzzed today with the report that Stanford university and St. Mary's have come to an understanding, after a six-year football breach.

The two teams probably will meet in 1934 if next season's schedule, now practically complete for both institutions, can be juggled to make way for the long discussed "football natural," it was learned.

An authoritative source, however, declared the Cardnals and Gaels surely would meet in 1935.

It had been rumored for some time since Glenn S. "Pop" Warner left Stanford to coach Temple university that Stanford and St. Mary's would "make up."

The last time the teams met was in 1927 at Stanford. St. Mary's smothered the Cardinals, 16 to 0, in a game which was the roughest ever witnessed on the coast. Officials lost control after the first two periods and, when the game finally ended, Coach Warner made it understood that while he was at Stanford, the Cardinals and Gaels never would play a return game.

CONTROL BOARD DIVIDES DUTIES

Behrens Supervises Farm Work; Plan to Cut Salaries.

Henry Behrens, new member of the board of control, who is taking over the supervision of farm crops, live stock, poultry, and dairying activities at state institutions as his particular share of the wok, will spend three or four days this week visiting the establishments at Hastings, Kearney, Grand Island, and York in company with the othe two members, Chairman Nellie Benson and Walter E. Hager.

As a member of the legislature, Mr. Behrens made inspection trips to a number of the institutions several years ago, and is now renewing his acquaintance with them. At the places already visited since his term on the board of control began July 1 he found general conditions good and was especially pleased with new buildings erected and other improvements since the last time he made the rounds.

All three members started at 1:30 Monday aftenoon for the tour they have outlined for this week. They will return Thursday.

At th edifferent institutions the board will confer with the superintendents in regard to further payroll cuts made necessary by reduced appropriations on one hand and advancing cost of foodstuffs and other supplies on the other. A 10 per cent reduction for staff members and employes is contemplated, but some exceptions will be made.

Several of the superintendents themselves will not have to take cuts, since their salaries are fixed by law, the same as those of state officials, and these rates were not changed by the legislature.

Parole Violator Gets Additional Three-Year-Term

Edgar M. Dawson, 31, paroled from the penitentiary last January with a forty months' balance of a robbery sentence hanging over his head, now has not only that time to serve but an additional three years for forgery.

Dawson, arrested in Omaha last Wednesday and accused of writing approximately $100 worth of forged checks in Douglas and Lancaster county, pleaded guilty before District Judge Chappell Monday to a charge based on an $8 check cashed in Lincoln on the Fourth of July.

Deputy County Attorney Farley Young told the judge that Dawson had been paroled to Sam Lawrence, Lincoln hotel man, and Lawrence reported that he had been a very good worker for about six months after his release. Infatuation for a woman led Dawson to begin forging checks, Young said.

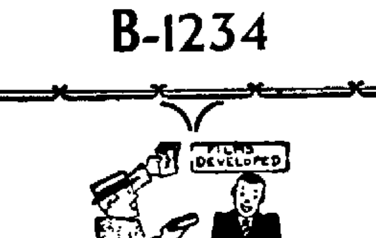

Dawson came to the penitentiary from Keith county. Dawson said he was arrested when he and another hitch-hiker got a ride at Ogallala and the other man struck the driver of the car over the head. Dawson served seven years in the penitentiary for this trouble before he was paroled.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

The motion picture industry depends, among other things, on the fact that wild mustard grows on the range, and that cattle there eat it. This fact was revealed by Dr. C. E. Mees, director of the Eastman research laboratories at Rochester, after an nivestigation into the chemistry of photography.

The gelatine used in the manufacture of film is made from cow's hide and, according to Dr. Mees, certain impurities are present in gelatine because cattle eat wild mustard with their other food in the pasture. This accidental presence of sulfur-bearing impurities is necessary to the chain of chemical reactions which take place in the manufacture, exposure and development of motion picture film.

The ancient Hebrew word for God, "Yahweh," was too sacred to be spoken publicly. Because of this, priests who copied Hebrew texts printed a substitute word beneath the word "Yahweh" so that anyone reading the scripture could speak the substitute word instead of the sacred one. "Adonay" or "Adonai" was often used tse the substitue.

When Christoan translators in the Middle Ages undertook to rewrite the Bible in European languages they aparently did not understand the purpose of the double word, so they took the consonants of "Yahweh" and the vowels of "Adonay" and combined them to form a word meaning God. From this evolved our present form "Johovah."

Lincoln Boy Likes Conservation Camp

Floyd Thompson Writes From Mystic, S. D., 'Feeling Fine,' Gains Weight.

Criticism in some quarters of the civilian conservation camp at Mystic S. D, is counteracted in a letter from Floyd Thompson, one of the recruits, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Thompson, 2523 Q street.

The letter:

MYSTIC, S. D.
Co. 760, C. C. C.
July 3, 1933.

Dear Mother and Dad:

Well, I can write you a long letter now, as I have seen a lot of country around here.

I went about a mile and a half from camp yesterday to a creek called Slate creek, and went trout fishing but I caught only two fish. I saw a lot of pretty country, all covered with jack pines, mostly young and quite thick.

While I was fishing I ran across a miner's camp, a small one with a crusher and sluice box. The miner showed me how to pan gold and I ran his pan for awhile—that is, I panned two pans, and got about a nickel's worth of gold for him. I'm going to get a pan for myself and try my luck.

I'm going to send home some flowers as soon as I can get them pressed. They sure are pretty. One looks just like a Tiger lily, only smaller.

Our permanent camp isn't built yet. It is to set on top of a small hill in a sort of semi-circle. We are going to have a permanent mess hall and a shower room and perhaps a barracks later on.

Boy, I sure do like it up here. The air is so clear and fresh and it gets very cool, almost cold, at night. I certainly do sleep well and eat plenty and feel fine. I am beginning to gain weight already.

A person never gets tired of walking here. You can go all day and not feel tired. Tell grandmother this would be a good place for her to visit if the mountains in Colorado are too high for her. The highest point around here is about 7,000 feet. Write soon. Your truly,

FLOYD THOMPSON.

BEGIN REBUILDING TELEPHONE LINE

Lincoln Telephone Company Using Hand Labor in Fairbury-Beatrice Costruction Work.

With all post digging machinery locked in the sheds so that hand labor may be employed, work has started on rebuilding 30 miles of telephone line between Fairbury and Beatrice, the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced Monday. The work, one of the major construction projects of the year for the company, will be completed in sixty days.

Work will be furnished to about forty men in addition to the regular crew of ten, M. T. Caster, general construction superintendent, announced. Laborers will be hired in the communities where the work is being done.

Rebuilding the line calls for placing of 904 new poles, replacing of worn-out poles, and for the use of other material, including several miles of copper wire and more than 3,000 cross arms.

The work is being done under the supervision of F. McDowell, construction foreman, of Lincoln.

EQUALIZING OF TAXES DELAYED

State Board Waiting On Douglas and Garden County Figures.

Average Cut 20 Per Cent, Rep. Finnegan Asks 40 Per Cent Slash.

Because Douglas and Garden counties have not yet made their assessment returns for 1933 to the state board of equalization that body cannot begin holding hearings on general equalization of real estate values before next Monday.

The law requires five days' notice to be given all counties before such hearings, and until the board gets the figures from all counties, particularly the one having the greatest amount of taxable wealth, it cannot formulate a schedule of proposed changes up and down to balance inequalities in the original returns.

The board met Monday forenoon, which was the statutory date for it to start work, but could not proceed with its task. Its secretary, State Tax Commissioner Smith, said it would be in session again Tuesday and Wednesday, but merely to comply wit hthe law's requirement to meet on three consecutive days.

Reductions Average 20 Per Cent.

An average reduction of about 20 per cent was made by county assessors, clerks, and boards on real estate, as compared with last year's assessment, but the percentage decrease varies widely in different counties, being much greater than 20 per cent in some and considerably less in others. The state board's duty is to revise the valuations so that all lands and lots, with their improvements, will bear proportionately the same tax burdens in relation to their actual worth.

In some counties the officials went the limit to meet demands of taxpayers' leagues by cutting valuations to the bone. In others, the valuations were held up as high as possible so as to yield tax revenue estimated as necessary without increasing the levies for local purposes. These discrepancies are what the state board must correct.

Finnegan Asks Big Slash.

State Representative S. J. Finnegan of Madison county, whose home is at Lindsay, came to Lincoln expecting to appear before the state board Monday and ask it to order a 40 per cent reduction on real estate in that county, instead of 20 per cent as made by the assessor and board. He insists that even with the larger cut the assessment would be left generally higher than lands will sell for.

Chairman A. A. Batie and Commissioner T. F. Gross of the Garden county board, with D. L. Jensen, chairman of the taxpayers' league for that county, were at the capitol Monday and explained that its assessment report to the state board was delayed because the assessor's office figured the wrong percentage reductions on all real estate items, and the work had to be done all over again.

Aside from informal consideration and discussion of the general assessment, the state board did nothing Monday except to hear Anton Jensen and N. M. Sommerville of Lincoln, who asserted that franchise valuations of utility corporations are too low and asked to have them raised.

U. S. Co-ordinating Service Closed As Economy Measure

President Roosevelt's economy axe has swung on the federal co-ordinating service. Offices of the bureau intended to create efficiency in U. S. government offices will be closed, it was announced in a communication received recently by Dr. A. H. Ffancis, president of the Lincoln branch.

It will still be possible for this branch, known as the Lincoln Federal Business association, to continue if the members desire. To ascertain wishes of members Dr. Francis is circulating a questionnaire.

Dr. Francis, who is inspector in charge of the U. S. bureau of animal industry here, said no one would be put out of employment by the move since the co-ordinating officers all held other positions.

EXPENSE ONLY COUNCIL WORRY

Recall Election Would Take $8,000; Is No Money in Fund.

The only concern members of the city council have as a result of the circulation of petitions to recall them, is the matter of expense, if the petitions are filed and found adequate. To hold a recall election will cost $8,000, because of the necessity of the primary and general election, it was pointed out, and there is not a cent in the election fund.

Commenting on the recall, Commissioner Harm said "I am not worrying about it. If there was a salary of upwards of $5,000 a year attached to being councilman, there might be something to fight for. But for a job that pays only $2,000 a year, never. I would not spend a single cent. Commissioners Oberlies and Doerr, also included among those against whom the recall is directed, said "okay" to Harm's statement.

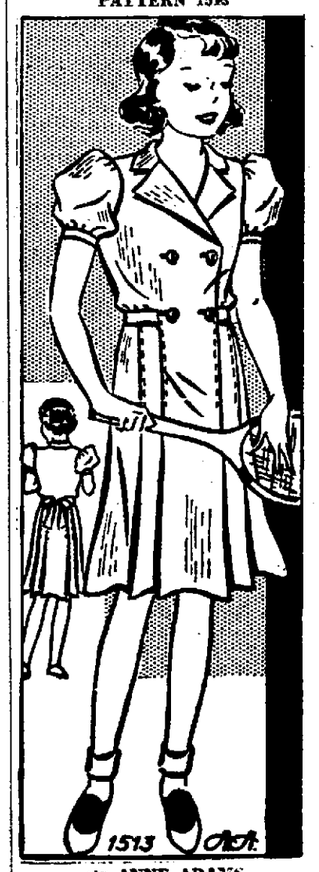

In the event the election is called, as many as wish can be candidates in the primary.

HUDSON BOOSTS PAY.

DETROIT, July 17.—(INS)—Wage increases ranging from 5 to 10 per cent per hour for all shop employes of the Hudson Motor Co. were announced today by President Roy D. Chapin, former secretary of commerce. Approximately 5,000 of the company's 7,000 workers are affected. The increase represents a payroll boost of about $750,000 a year, Chapin said.

200 RAIL MAIL CLERKS TO MEET

Begin Two-Day Biennial Convention Here Tuesday.

More than 200 members of the fourteenth division, Railway Mail association, and their wives are expected to attend the two-day biennial convention which opens Tuesday morning at the Cornhusker hotel. A preliminary meeting for convention guests and Lincoln association members is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at the hotel.

Following registration Tuesday morning, the program will get under way at 10 o'clock with addresses of welcome by Verne L. Benson, president of the Lincoln branch, Rev. Ray Hunt, Mayor Fenton B. Fleming, Lt. Gov. Walter Jurgensen, Trev E. Gillaspie, postmaster, and Stanley Maly, president of the Lincoln chamber of commerce.

Harry Hughes, Sheridan, Wyo., president of the division, will appoint the credentials committee before the convention adjourns for luncheon. The afternoon will be devoted to a business meeting for the men while the women will be entertained at a tea, followed by golf at Antelope park. At 4 o'clock a tour of the city will be conducted.

Memorial Service Wednesday.

A theater party has been planned for 8 o'clock Tuesday evening for the ladies. Association members will continue their business sessions.

Wednesday morning, the annual memorial service for deceased members will be conducted by O. R. Eller of Lincoln. Completion of unfinished business and a tour of the capitol will comprise the afternoon program. Climaxing the convention will be the banquet and dance at the Cornhusker, Wednesday evening. Mr. Benson will preside at the banquet and speakers will include division officers and delegates to the national convention in Seattle.

Members of the fourteenth division, which includes, Nebraska, part of Colorado, and Wyoming, expect to consider working conditions during the business meetings.

CITY MAY PAY LABORERS CASH

Three Members of Council in Favor of Such System.

At least three members of the city council are ready to discontinue the practice of paying emergency laborers with food orders, and pay cash instead, they stated Monday at the informal conference of the comissioners in the mayor's office. They are A. C. Harm, E. M. Bair, and L. C. Oberlies. Mr. Oberlies would not act immediately, he said, preferring to await the return of Mayor Fleming.

The three expressed resentment at what they termed "unfair treatment of the city and the unemployed, in the handling of the food orders. "The city and the workers are not being treated fairly," Harm declared. "The county is not carrying out our ideas, and I am in favor of paying the emergency workers in cash instead of food orders." "That's what we should do," Commissioner Bair said.

The resentment of the councilmen was shown when Oberlies reported the result of conferences he has had with county officials, members of the county relief bureau, and holders of food orders. "The men are not getting all their orders call for," he declared. "If a person goes to the county with an order for $7.20, he is given food considered sufficient for a certain period. If there is money left, and the holder of the order has at some previous date been given food for which he did not work, the balance of the order is credited against the food previously issued."

Reports of discrimination have reached the councilmen, it was said. Oberlies and Harm told of men who have been given food to the full amount of the work orders, while others had not.

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"
